

Bus problem solved

Bus Delay not related to budget cuts

By JAYNE W. MILLER
WILMINGTON - Last week's Crier contained several angry comments from worried parents complaining about late buses the first week of school. A route for the Wildwood school saw delays such that the driver was picking up some children after the school day officially began. Late drop-offs occurred as well.

The beginning of the school year can pose a few bus related challenges and working out the logistics can take a few days. However, Wilmington has not seen this kind of a response from parents in a long time and some speculate that cutting three busses out of the budget contributed to the delays.

"Due to inefficiencies or poor scheduling my 5-year-old son, along with many of his classmates, has been picked up after the school day is scheduled to begin and dropped off an average of one hour and fifteen minutes after school is scheduled to be let out for the entire first week of school," wrote one anonymous parent to the Crier's Two Cents line. "Keep in mind this is a busload of 5-year-old kindergarten children. This needs to be fixed."

"Kindergarten students at the Wildwood school are waiting up to 20-30 minutes after dismissal for their bus to arrive at the Wildwood before they board the bus to go home," said another anonymous parent. "My child has not been home in under one hour since school began, a trip that would normally take

Joe Ryan celebrates 50 years of barbering

Still in the Square, still cutting hair

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - Businesses come and go, but in Wilmington Square, Joe Ryan has been in one location, cutting hair for the past 50 years.

Joe first started working for Adrian Durkee when he was 19, in 1959. Durkee's Barber Shop had been an institution in the Square since 1924, even surviving a fire that wiped out the drug store block in 1950.

When they rebuilt the drug store, Joe said, the plans called for a two-story building, but the second story was never built. So the stairway space, eight feet wide by 60 feet long, became a barber shop, next to the drug store. The building is not quite 60 years old.

Joe Ryan worked for Adrian Durkee for three years. When Adrian retired in 1962, Joe bought the business. And a half-century after he gave his first haircut in Durkee's Barber Shop, Joe is still there, still cutting hair. The business is now 85 years old.

When Joe began cutting hair, short haircuts were the norm. Durkee's had three barber's stations, each with a large mirror, a line up of bottles of hair tonic. There would be Vitalis, Brylcreem, Wildroot Cream Oil and several other brands. There was a small sink, a few pair of scissors, a comb, a straight-edged razor, a long-haired brush, and a couple of electric clippers. And there was a hot shaving cream dispenser, which had replaced the shaving mug.

And then there was the chair. Getting into the barber's chair was almost like going on a carnival ride. For men wanting a shave, the chair back would go down, and the chair would go much higher. It was always fascinating to see the chair in that mode, and watch the barber strop the straight-edged razor. Nobody comes in for a shave now, says Joe.

Entering the shop, there was just enough room to walk past the three barber's chairs. In the back, there was a double row of waiting chairs and a table with magazines, comic books and a cou-

Plans to use data to identify and help additional students

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - Weeks of preparation and days of test taking are done for 2009 and the scores are in for Wilmington's students, parents and educators to analyze. While the Middle School was identified for corrective action, overall Wilmington schools maintain a Very High performance rating for English Language Arts (ELA), the highest available rating, and a High rating in Math.

"While on the downside the middle school is identified for corrective action, we knew that was coming based on the formula, but only for subgroups," Superintendent Joanne Benton told the Crier last week. "The good news is that we continue to see improvement in almost all areas."

Education Commissioner Mitchell Chester announced last week that 54 percent of the state's schools have been identified for improvement, corrective action or restructuring under the federal accountability system, up from half of all schools in 2008.

Every penny counts

Delaney Diaz in business to find a cure

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - Saturday marks the return of a lemonade stand that represents the belief of two young girls that every penny raised for cancer research can save lives.

Two years ago Wilmington's Delaney Diaz watched as Oprah Winfrey interviewed the parents of a young cancer patient who founded a fundraising organization to find a cure for childhood cancer. Delaney's mom, Halley Diaz, said Delaney decided that she wanted to host a lemonade stand to help raise funds for childhood cancer too, because if just one cancer could be cured maybe they all could be cured.

The parents on Oprah's show were the family of Alexandra "Alex" Scott, a child who was diagnosed with neuroblastoma, a form of childhood cancer, just before she turned one year old in 1996.

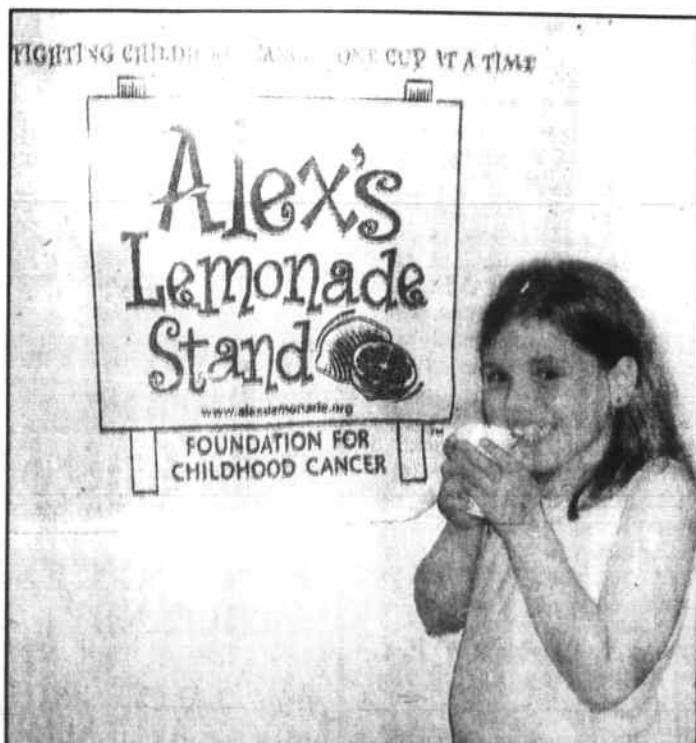

According to the Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation website, "In the year 2000, the day after her fourth birthday, Alex received a stem cell transplant and informed her mother, 'When I get out of the hospital I want to have a lemonade stand.' She said she wanted to give the money to the doctors to help them find a cure. True to her word, she held her first lemonade stand later that year and raised an amazing $2000 for 'her hospital.' During the next four years, while bravely battling her own cancer, Alex Scott formed a foundation that raised more than $1 million to help find a cure for the disease that took her life in 2004. Family and friends and supporters across the nation carry on the mission started by Alex Scott.

Last year the local lemonade stand at the Diaz's Wilmington home raised more than $700. This year Delaney, now 8 years old, has set a goal of raising $1,000 with her stand this Saturday. With this in mind, the Diaz family reaches out to residents, businesses and organizations to help meet that goal

Sutton Brook Disposal Area clean-up

Tewksbury responsible for 22 percent of remediation cost

By STEPHEN BJORK

TEWKSBURY - The Sutton Brook Disposal Area, commonly referred to as Rocco's Landfill, is one step closer to a clean-up. The Board of Selectmen signed a Consent Decree and a Participation Agreement on Tuesday night that outlines the responsibilities of the 40-plus responsible parties involved in the remediation of the Superfund site located in Tewksbury and Wilmington.

The documents will be lodged with Federal Court and with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) once all 40-plus responsible parties have signed. As of press deadline, more than half have signed.

The Consent agreement sets forth the responsibilities of the parties involved and the Participation Agreement establishes the framework of the working relationship between the responsible parties. Tewksbury will shoulder 22 percent of the remediation costs.

"The Town of Tewksbury is in this because we were the most significant municipal generator at the site," said Tewksbury Town Manager David Cressman. "The Town of Tewksbury, from the mid-1950's through the mid-1980's, used the site as its primary solid waste disposal site."

The responsible parties are grouped into three categories: generators, transporters, and the Town of Tewksbury. The Town of Tewksbury's status was increased from generator to operator as a result of a court case in the 1960's.

"We've been involved in this process, negotiating this settlement, going back to 2003," said Cressman. "This concludes this settlement and lays out what the town's responsibilities will be in remediating this site."

According to Cressman, the Town's negotiated payment structure begins this year with $75,000, which has been budgeted. Next year the Town will pay $150,000, and the amount will increase each year by approximately $75,000 to a ceiling of approximately $375,000.

The agreement does provide the Town with the opportunity to offset its costs in upcoming years by providing services to the property. For instance, taking the property for back-taxes is an option, as is providing maintenance in the form of snowplowing and mowing. The Town may also bring sewer service to the property. Additionally, the Town will work with the Tri-Town Taskforce in regard to the proposed I-93 Lowell Junction Interchange. If the clean-up and construction of an interchange can be affected on a parallel course, a "haul road" may be constructed between the site and I-93. Such a road, which would provide a direct route for vehicles accessing the site, would cut costs dramatically in fuel costs and time-saving. It would also keep truck traffic off of South

Street in Tewksbury.

"A 'haul road' will provide significant savings to the group, which will then be passed onto the group," said Cressman.

The details of the Consent Decree and the Participation Agreement are not available to the public until all named responsible parties have signed.

The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously to sign and to have special counsel execute both documents.

In 1957 Tewksbury's Board of Selectmen designated Rocco's Landfill as a temporary dump. In 1961, burning of waste was halted at the site, and the site was converted to a sanitary landfill. The Tewksbury Board of Health revoked the landfill's site permit for alleged violations of state regulations in 1979. The site was inspected by the state Department of Environmental Quality Engineering in 1983, at which time arsenic, benzene, toluene and other solvent-based chemicals were detected in water and leachate samples.

Suffolk Superior Court ordered property owner Jeanette Rocco to submit a closure plan in 1987, but Rocco claimed financial inability.

From the late 1980's through 1991, area residents claimed to see trucks illegally entering the dumpsite. A fly-over of the site determined that dumping had occurred.

Bemis Circle resident Judy

Fittery founded the citizen's group TOXIC (Townpeople Organized Against Illness and Contamination). The group advocated for remediation and for the construction of a fence to surround the contaminated property.

By 1992, tests had identified 67 chemicals - some of which were known carcinogens - in soil, sediment, and leachate samples. Middlesex Superior Court ordered a halt to all dumping and soil processing at the site. Meanwhile, in 1992, the EPA found no threat to the public.

The residents voted to appropriate $30,000 for engineering costs and site assessment during a 1994 Tewksbury Town Meeting.

In 1999, hundreds of old 55-gallon chemical drums were discovered at the landfill and in nearby Wilmington, and were removed in 2000.

In 1999, the EPA ordered a new survey of the chemical contents at the landfill. Then in June of 2001, the EPA designated the site - now officially named as the Sutton Brook Disposal Area - to the National Priorities List, thereby deeming it a "Superfund Site."

In 2002, approximately 4,400 tons of contaminated soil was removed from the site.

Over the last several years, responsible parties have been identified and alternatives for effective remediation of the site have been explored.

It's Your Money by Joyce Brisbois

PHANTOM GAIN ON A 401(K) DISTRIBUTION?

You don't have to pay tax on money that disappeared. If you took a corrective distribution from your 401(k) plan-if, as is common, lower-paid employees didn't defer enough pay during a year, leaving the fund top-heavy-and your 1099-R shows the full amount of the excess deferral, help is available.

Even if the value of the corrective distribution dropped because of the market decline, you must list the full amount as income, but you can claim the investment loss on your tax return.

More on 401(k) plans: after-tax pay-ins to a 401(k) can be converted to a Roth IRA tax free. Ordinarily, converting an IRA to a Roth is only tax-free to the extent of the ratio of nondeductible contributions to the total in all your IRAs.

And still more: There is no ceiling of adjusted gross income if you are switching from a Roth 401(k) to a Roth IRA. From any other source, there is a $100,000 ceiling this year.

Letters to the editor

Keep the paper coming

Dear Editor,
The Deming Way tenants would like to say "thank you to the public" for bringing your recycled papers, magazines, junk mail, etc. to our green and yellow recycle bins. Some of us have talked with and thanked the contributors. You are helping us greatly and we appreciate it. We are reimbursed monthly from the recycle company.

In August a group from Deming Way went on the Whale Watch Cruise tour from Boston Harbor, we saw a mother whale and her young one, plus several other whales. We all enjoyed that trip.

The recycle company empties our bins weekly. Please continue to recycle your papers here.

Thank You,
Leona Bombard
Wilmington

Thank you, from WCF

Dear Editor:

The Board of Directors of the Wilmington Community Fund would like to thank the Chamber of Commerce, Town Crier, Town Manager and Board of Selectmen and WCTV for their support in making the public aware of our benefit auction held last Sunday, Sept. 20th. Unfortunately turnout was so small we lacked bidders for items. Wilmington Methodist Church took some remaining items to auction off for WCF in their upcoming auction this Sunday, Sept. 27th at 1:30 p.m. Please attend this auction and BID! We are happy to say that Mission of Deeds benefited from the remaining furniture and lots of household items. Various items were also donated to the Salvation Army. It is good to know that we are helping organizations that are just as in need as WCF. Our motto, "People helping People" is a simple way of stating what the Wilmington Community Fund is all about.

WCF would like to thank A Whole Bunch Flower Market, Aleppo Temple, All Seasons Florists, As Good As It Gets Café, Boston Bruins, Custom Stitch, Dynamics Research employees, Dunkin' Donuts

(357 Middlesex Ave.), Elia's Country Store, Firestone, Giant Glass, Hancox Kitchens & Construction, IM Wireless, Platinum Door Salon & Day Spa, POD, Sleepy's, Staples, TJMaxx, West Real Estate, Wilmington Fourth of July Committee, Wilmington Plaza Wine & Spirits, Wilson Wolfe Real Estate and the many residents of Wilmington and surrounding towns for their generous contributions.

A special thank you to Denise Ryan of Ryan Auction Co. Not only did Denise donate her facilities and herself as auctioneer, but contributed numerous items, including furniture, to help our cause. She will also be auctioning off some remaining items for us in her upcoming auctions.

In the coming year, we plan to continue our efforts as the demands for services and goods are expected to grow. We thank everyone who supported us. A special thanks to all board members who worked so hard to put this auction together.

Sincerely,

Joan D. Searfoss,

Town Clean-up Day

Dear Editor,

A big THANK YOU is extended to all the volunteers who participated in Wilmington's annual Town Clean-Up, which actually occurred over three days this month. Also thank you to those who pick up trash in their neighborhoods throughout the year. Thank you, as well, to Dunkin' Donuts (at Middlesex Avenue for the 19th and at Main and Richmond Streets for the 12th) and Demoulas Market Basket (for both the 12th and 19th) for providing refreshments for the volunteers.

The volunteers, including extended families and several local contractors with trucks, picked up a surprisingly large amount of debris from the stream crossings, wetlands, and various Town properties. Not only do areas look better without the debris, but they are safer without the broken bottles, nails sticking out of old lumber, rusty metal, and so on.

The Planning and Conservation Department reminds residents and their contractors to dispose of wastes appropriately, and not to throw containers, construction materials, discarded household items, landscape debris, etc. out in the woods, wetlands, on public and other people's land. If you notice people dumping please speak to them directly or contact the police or the Planning and Conservation Department (978-658-8238). Let's work together to keep Wilmington clean.

Elephant crossing?

Dear Editor,

I'm New to the Wilmington area. I was just reading something about our State Rep., Mr. Miceli. I have to ask a big question. Is the elephant a native species to this state? Is the pachyderm indigenous to Massachusetts? Or better yet, to Wilmington, Tewksbury? If so, I haven't seen any elephant crossing signs. Or any 'look out for Elephant' signs.

Since we can all agree that elephants in MA can only be seen in the Republican party or the ZOO why did Rep. Miceli waste the taxpayers' time to sponsor a bill making the elephant the State Mammal?

I can only wonder what other piece of legislation is waiting in the wings. Let's see, how about poison ivy as the official state weed. Or the gold fish as the official state pet.

1/2 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon corn starch salt

red pepper flakes
2 cups mushrooms sliced olive oil
1/2 teaspoon Chinese 5 spice seasoning (found in the spice aisle)

Mix together 1 tablespoon of the garlic, 1/2 of the green onions, the peppers, onions and broccoli, and toss with a little olive oil and salt just to coat the veggies. Bake on a cookie sheet at 400 for about 15-20 minutes. Cook pasta as directed on box. In a large pan or wok heat about 3 tablespoons olive oil. Add scallops and shrimp, and cook for about 2 minutes. Add mushrooms, red pepper flakes and Chinese 5 spice seasoning.

Whisk together brown sugar, soy sauce, corn starch, remaining scallions, and the other tablespoon of garlic. Add half of this mixture to the wok/pan, and toss with the veggies. Strain pasta and mix with rest of the soy sauce mixture. Toss all together and serve.

Hong Kong Beef and Broccoli

(this recipe came to me from "a neighbor")

1/2 package Hong Kong flour noodles

1/4 cup canola oil
1 bound lean beef cut thin for stir fry

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 large onion, sliced thin

3 cloves minced garlic
1 large head of broccoli, cut into flowerets

1 can straw mushrooms
2 tablespoons oyster sauce

1/8 cup soy sauce

1/2 cup water

salt and pepper

Coat beef in cornstarch seasoned with salt and pepper. Heat oil over medium heat. Add flour noodles in one even layer, and cook until crisp on one side. Remove from pan and let rest on paper towels.

Add beef to the hot pan and stir fry until browned. Add garlic and onions, and stir fry until softened. Add broccoli, oyster sauce, water, and soy sauce. Stir fry until broccoli is done. Place crispy noodles on a serving platter, and top with stir fry.

Egg Rolls

("Neighbor" says these are a hit whenever she serves them, and fun to make)

1 lb. ground pork

1 tsp. ground ginger

1 tsp garlic powder

2 tbs flour

2 tbs water

2 cups shredded cabbage

1/4 cup shredded carrots

8 egg roll wrappers

peanut oil for frying

Season pork with ginger and garlic powder, and mix thoroughly. Heat in a medium skillet, stirring, until pork is cooked through and no longer pink. Set aside.

In a large skillet, heat oil to medium high. While oil is heating, combine flour and water in a bowl to make a paste. In another bowl, mix cabbage, carrots, and pork mixture.

Lay out one egg roll wrapper with a corner pointed toward you. Place a 1/4 cup pork mixture on the wrapper and fold the corner up to cover. Fold in left and right corners, and roll rest of way to make an egg roll. Brush a little of the flour paste on the last corner to seal egg roll.

Continue making egg rolls until wrappers are gone. Fry, turning occasionally, until golden brown.

Message from the Superintendent of Schools Plans for the New Tewksbury Memorial High School Take Shape

Members of the High School Building Committee interviewed two architectural firms on Thursday, September 10, 2009. These firms were selected to participate in the Model Schools Project through the Massachusetts School Building Authority. The Committee was impressed with both firms, and they selected the firm of Symmes, Maini McKee Associates, Inc. (SMMA) as the architectural firm for the project.

In selecting SMMA the High School Building Committee is opting for the Hudson High School Model School design. Many members of the Building Committee have toured Hudson High School. These members were impressed with many aspects of this school facility and the direct benefit that our students will derive from this new facility. Of special note was the design of the Library/Media Center, the oversized gymnasium with the suspended track, the traditional well equipped auditorium and the second smaller auditorium and the layout of the general classrooms and the science labs.

The Building Committee will now work with SMMA to present a preferred schematic design for review by the MSBA with special emphasis on the space allocated for special education instruction. We will also address the aspects of the project that will conform to the environmental "Green Schools" goal. Our goal is to present our project to the MSBA at its January 2010 Board Meeting and to the community for a projected Special Town Meeting and Special Election targeted for February 2010.

We are very pleased to be one of the few districts selected for participation in the Model Schools Program. This Program will afford us the opportunity to provide our students with an outstanding educational facility at a very reasonable cost. It will also provide the Town with a great venue for community use. We look forward to apprising the community of the progress of our project.

Around the Dial with WCTV

either free or inexpensive. The next best thing to being at the game is seeing a video of the kids in action...on WCTV.

Well, here's the new idea. If you go to WHS sports games, consider taking your video camera along. Or if you have a camera and would like to video a game, WCTV will show your footage on our educational channel (Comcast 10/Verizon 39). Then, the entire town of Wilmington will be able to share in the excitement and fun of watching athletic competition right in their homes!

For example, the WHS Varsity boys and girls Soccer season is seeking coverage. Their coaches are so enthused about their teams that they would like to share the games with the general public. Whether they win or they lose, they are our Wilmington kids, our grandchildren, our neighbors and we are proud of them!

If you have any interest, please contact WCTV (978-657-4066) and tell us which game(s) you would be able to videotape. Set your camera to SP, 4X3 ratio, stereo and use mini DV tapes, drop off the tapes to WCTV and watch your program on the air.

Real man stepped up to the plate!

Josh Hiltz, Wilmington, to Join Season 3 of "Dancing with the Realtors"®

Josh Hiltz

WILMINGTON - Josh Hiltz will be participating in Season 3 of Dancing with the Realtors®. Josh is a new dancer for 2009, and grew up in Wilmington until starting college at the University of New Hampshire. He graduated UNH in 2005 with a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, with a focus in Finance. While at UNH he made the sports transition from football to rugby, which proved to be a great decision. Josh says he was also lucky enough to join a study-abroad program through UNH, where he spent four months at Regent's College.

Since college Josh has been working in the financial data industry and is approaching his four-year anniversary with Interactive Data Corporation. After only six months with IDC, he was given the opportunity to work abroad in London for six months. His second stint in London was an amazing experience, as was his first, and he aims to travel much more in the upcoming years. Josh spends his free time golfing, exercising, and traveling with friends. Of course, he recently has gotten into dance...and will be "Dancing with the Realtors®" to raise funds for a great cause, Habitat for Humanity. Josh is looking forward to participating on October 8th and hopes you will come to see him foxtrot and swing!

This organization along with the dynamic professional Realtors® Dancing with the Realtors® was created by Linda Covino; and Season 1 took place in the spring of 2007. The show is based on the ABC hit Dancing with the Stars.

In order to dance in the show, dancers must commit to ten ballroom lessons at Studio 665 in Woburn, where they are currently training. This year, newcomers will be dancing the foxtrot and swing, while returning dancers will be learning the salsa and waltz. Billy Costa of TV Diner will be the Celebrity Host, and Susan Wornick of WCVB TV Channel 5, will be the Celebrity Judge. The show will take place at the Burlington Marriott on October 8, 2009. All participants will also have the opportunity to compete in the state finals at the Eastern United States Dancesport Championship January 22nd through the 24th at the Renaissance Boston Waterfront Hotel. The Realtor event will take place the afternoon of January 23rd.

Josh welcomes your support. If you are interested in attending Dancing with the Realtors® Season 3, sponsoring the event, or donating to Habitat for Humanity through the show, you can contact Josh at jhiltz11@yahoo.com.

For more information and tickets contact Linda Covino at Linda@lindacovino.com.

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

Thumbs down to the DPW for not keeping up with overgrown bushes and trees on our sidewalks. I took my toddlers for a walk and had to dodge a bunch of branches so they wouldn't hit them in the face and even had to go off the sidewalk onto busy streets. I hope this problem can be rectified soon.

Wilmington

Hopefully the Collings Family will continue their support and care of the traffic island at the corner of Nichols Street and Shawshen Avenue. They have maintained a beautiful flag and flower display and kept the island landscaped over the years. Recently, cowardly vandals have taken to ruining this patriotic display in the middle of the night despite the Collings' continued efforts. As good neighbors - let's keep our guard up and report any suspicious activity in this area to the police.

We shouldn't let the vandal's win this battle, and ruin our neighborhood.

Wilmington

Thumbs down to a veteran who is getting medical and disability benefits while he was working under someone else's name.

PARSIPPANY, N.J. — Coldwell Banker Real Estate LLC ranked highest among real estate companies in satisfying home sellers according to the recently released J.D. Power and Associates 2009 Home Buyer/Seller StudySM.

"This recognition is a testament to the brand's legacy as an industry leader, our commitment to innovation and, above all, our powerful network," said Jim Gillespie, president and CEO of Coldwell Banker Real Estate LLC. "With unsurpassed local knowledge, expertise and work ethic, we at Coldwell Banker have always felt that our network of professionals is the greatest in the industry, and we're pleased J.D. Wilmington Chamber member celebrates its 25th anniversary

JFL Marketing publisher of the Community Connection Yellow Pages, is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, marking a quarter-century of service to communities throughout the North Shore and beyond.
JFL Marketing founder Jim Lubinski started the company in 1984, initially focusing on marketing shopping centers and malls throughout Massachusetts. The company expanded its services in 1990 to include health care facilities and practitioners, leading to the publication of HealthWise Magazine, a quarterly full-color magazine for consumers.
Looking to fine-tune its printing and publishing skills while concentrating on local services, JFL Marketing launched its first Community Connections Yellow Pages in 1991 in its hometown of Melrose. Following the success of its premiere edition, the company launched editions in the neighboring communities of Saugus, Stoneham and Wakefield.
During the next two decades, Community Connections Yellow Pages has been successfully introduced in 15 additional communities in Massachusetts, including Reading/North Reading, Wilmington, Burlington, Woburn, Winchester, Lynnfield, Medford, Malden, Revere, Everett, Chelsea, Lexington, Andover/North Andover, Billerica and Tewksbury.

Regional editions have also been introduced in the Mount Washington Valley area of New Hampshire, in 1993, and in the Sebago Lake area of Maine, in 1996, bringing the total number of Community Connection Yellow Pages to 22. The books reach more than 270,000 households and businesses in those communities.
"We're not resting on our laurels," Jim Lubinski said. "This anniversary will mark the start of a new era for Community Connections Yellow Pages and JFL Marketing as we launch an enhanced version of our online editions of each phone directory."
"This is a tremendous opportunity for our advertisers to be seen not only by buyers who look in the directories, but also by those who shop online."

The www.communityconnectionyellowpages.com website is more user-friendly, according to Lubinski, with users able to find Yellow Pages advertisers by category, or by name. The site also enables users to access the directories' white pages, user pages, and street directories, along with advertiser coupons and other unique opportunities.
Community Connection Yellow Pages will be finalizing sales solicitations in Wilmington soon. Advertisers in all editions will be featured in the newly enhanced www.communityconnectionyellowpages.com.
"All new 22 Community Connection Yellow Pages directories will be online, complete with advertisers' company profiles, videos, coupons, links to websites and emails, and interactive maps," Wilmington sales representative Debby Small added. "This is a unique advantage for our advertisers."
To learn more about JFL Marketing and its Community Connection Yellow Pages, call Debby at 781-640-9951.

The lemonade stand will be at 285 Salem Street on Saturday, September 26th from noon until 5:00 p.m. and will feature lots of lemonade, music and volunteers. Halley Diaz said, "Lots of people come out and have a good time. People tell stories of their friends and family that have had cancer." The event combines fond memories, fellowship and fundraising and brings it all home to Wilmington where Halley Diaz said they had a "huge response last year."

Delaney, a third grade student at the Woburn School, insisted upon holding her lemonade stand again this year, because in the last year the family has lost several people they were close to. Delaney dedicated this year's stand to Tim O'Brien, whom her mother describes as a grandfather figure who passed away in November of 2008.

Halley Diaz says her daughter is a very compassionate little girl who says, "Hopefully if we can stop one cancer we can stop them all."

Still in the Square, still cutting hair

ple of newspapers.

The Square was still the business center of Wilmington when Joe started. The barbershop was between Poole's Bakery and the Wilmington Center Pharmacy. There was a First National Store, hardly a supermarket, but more of a grocery store. Down the hill was Ames News, Benny Harrison's television shop, and Huntley's Lunch.

The Wilmington Post Office was on the corner of Main and Church streets, next to the drug store. Henry Porter was the postmaster. Much of the mail would arrive by train, and Henry would often go to the depot with a wheelbarrow to pick up the mailbags.

Joe Balestrieri had a small fleet of taxicabs, all 1959 Dodges with big tail fins. Joe would always be at the depot, meeting every train. Today, now retired from driving cabs, Balestrieri is Joe Ryan's oldest customer.

Ryan spent six years in the National Guard. He left for basic training the day after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. He spent six months on active duty, with another barber running the shop for him.

About 25 years ago, Joe took up running, and he now runs five days a week, about 30 miles a week. It's six miles from his home to the shop. Joe has run the Boston Marathon four times.

Bringing art to life

BY CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

TEWKSBURY- About three years ago one local artist experienced a life-changing epiphany that led her to an opening the following week of a gallery showing of her "Artistic Impressions of a Natural World" at the Beebe Estate Gallery in Melrose.

Tewksbury's Jen Barbati graduated from the Rhode Island School of Design in 1985 with a Bachelors of Illustration, but her post-college career path took her into work as a graphic artist, doing pre-press work, database administration, and desktop publishing while sometimes working on commissioned animal portraits. She had yet to find the artistic inspiration that would become a career.

While browsing in a bookstore about three years ago, Barbati found a magazine called "Wildlife Art." She describes the experience saying, "The art I saw in that magazine was beyond inspiring and struck me like a bolt of lightning. I remember that moment as if it were yesterday; clearly, distinctly. I refer to it as my epiphany. So many thoughts and images began swirling around in my mind; my passion for wildlife and art had collided and I finally had a direction!" At last she knew what she wanted to say with her artistic voice.

"I finally knew what I wanted to be when I grew up," added Barbati who soon began to paint as much as time would allow. She entered her artwork into local shows such as the annual Art Show by the Tewksbury Community Artists where she won the People's Choice award for the last four years in a row.

"I appreciate it (the People's Choice award) so much because it means that what I'm doing is working - I've connected. When people say 'this is what I like,' that's the best thing."

Barbati and artist Robert Cyr were invited to show at the Beebe Estate Gallery in Melrose because of the similar subject matter they both exhibited at the Melrose Arts and Cultural Association Show in 2008. The show title is "Artistic Impressions of a Natural World" and all of the subject matter is wildlife.

Barbati said her work is specifically "up close and personal." Barbati said, "I strive to achieve a bond of emotion between the viewer and the animals I paint. I want to connect people with my subject so that they can really experience that moment in time."

Whenever possible, Barbati prefers to do her own field work and sometimes visits zoos to take reference photos of her animal subjects. One such trip brought her to the Stone Zoo where she was completely captivated by a mama jaguar perched in her spot overlooking her cub.

"It caught me in such a way that actually brought tears to my eyes. I love Big Cats and she is a beauty. I think I might have 150 photos of her and I didn't move for an hour - in awe. It was an amazing thing to see between the light on her, her gorgeous coat of fur, her tender look. This feeling and connection is what I hope to bring back to the viewer when they see the final painting. It's all about connection."

Last school year Barbati began sharing that concept of "connection" and other art techniques with students in Tewksbury Schools. She taught an after school arts and enrichment program at the North Street School for students in grades 1 through 4 and said she looks forward to doing that again this year when she hopes to also run a session for kindergarten students.

In the spring Barbati opened "Jen's Studio," a studio in her home where she offered art classes for students in grades 5 through 8. Classes will begin again the week of October 19th offering Drawing and Mixed Media. Her studio will offer three 10-week sessions this year.

"The kids love art...the kids are so talented it is amazing," exclaimed Barbati who prefers to keep class sizes to four or five students at a time. "I like it that way because they get more of me, more of my attention," said Barbati.

Kristen Kosiba, the art teacher at the North Street and L.F. Dewing Schools said she loves having Barbati come into her art classes to work with the children. Of Barbati's after school program Kosiba said, "She displayed the finished products in the school and they looked so professional and one could tell the young artist fell in love with all the detail the animal has - alive in them - many kinds of lines, shapes, colors, textures and values. With Jen, children were taught how to notice these elements and put them in their creations."

Kosiba spoke highly of Barbati's work saying her "paintings of the natural world are so true to life most individuals I know think that her paintings are photographs. It is easy to be fooled. Jen has such patience and love for her animals that she will spend hours and hours on works to capture all that an animal is made of. Every animal is special to Jen and she nurtures every detail it owns."

"Artistic Impressions of a Natural World" opens at the Beebe Estate at 235 West Foster Street in Melrose with an opening reception on Friday, October 2, from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. The opening reception is open to the public and public viewing hours will also be available on Saturdays in October from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. More information about Barbati can be found at www.JenBarbati.com. Information about the show can be found at www.BeebeEstate.org.

Don't miss Alex's Lemonade Stand this weekend, being run by Delaney Diaz at her 285 Salem Street home in Wilmington. Wilmington Police Sgt Pupa was just one of many, many people who stopped by last year. Diaz and her sister Riley and their cousin (right rear) Meghan Costello ran the stand last year.

Cub Scout Pack 361 Kick Off

Cub Scout Pack 361 kicked off another year with its annual bonfire. The bonfire was held in Cub Master's John Arvanitis' backyard this past Sunday. Nearly two hundred Cubs and family members enjoyed a great day. The air was filled with campfire songs and excitement for the upcoming scouting year. After having hotdogs the Cubs, along with brothers and sisters, gathered around the fire to make s'mores. It is never too late to join the fun of Cub Scouting. Pack 361 is sponsored by the Wilmington United Methodist Church. Bus problem solved five minutes! Somebody please help!"

But Superintendent Joanne Benton says the problem is now solved.

"It happened the first three days. It had nothing to do with the reduction of three busses," said Benton. "It had to do with the route the bus driver elected to use."

Wilmington Safety Officer Brian Moon worked with Transportation Coordinator Sue Hardimon to sort out bus route issues, with Moon following the bus in question one day to make recommended changes to the route.

Director of Administration and Finance, Paul Ruggerio, and Benton also went out on the road, checking stops last week. Since then, Moon followed the bus again and it is running on time.

"We always know that the first two weeks of school are going to cause some added issues, but until the busses run we cannot straighten them out," Benton told the Crier.

Other things that contribute to slower schedules at the beginning of the year include the newest students, Kindergarteners, learning how to ride the bus, and their little legs negotiating the high steps involved when entering and leaving the vehicle.

"Parents were right to be upset about it, but it is solved now," Benton told the Crier Friday. "Head teachers at that school said that for the last two days things have been fine."

Bishop named to Dean's List at Assumption College

WORCESTER - Jonathan Bishop, son of Kenneth and Maria Bishop of Wilmington, was named to the Dean's List at Assumption College for the Spring 2009 semester. Assumption students must have a GPA (grade point average) of 3.5 or higher to make the Dean's List.

English Language Arts (ELA) and Math. Those that fail to meet their AYP targets in ELA and Math in the aggregate, or for any of their subgroups, for two or more consecutive years receive an accountability status and are required to take steps to focus efforts on improving student performance. Alternately, schools and districts are removed from the list when they make their targets for two consecutive years.

In Wilmington, subgroups are proving challenging for both ELA and Math scores. At the Middle School, which is in Improvement Year 2 for subgroups in ELA and now Corrective Action for subgroups in Math, only students in the special education sub-group missed AYP while math students in both special education and low-income subgroups failed to meet AYP. The school did receive an 'on target' for its improvement rating, meaning that math scores increased within the target range.

In grades three to five Wilmington once again failed to achieve AYP for the low-income subgroup in ELA (as it did in 2007 and 2008). Elementary students also did not achieve AYP in both the aggregate and subgroups for the math MCAS, but most of those scores are linked to the two intermediate schools.

The North Intermediate School is on target for ELA scores but its Improvement Rating was 'declined' this year in mathematics, missing

AYP for the aggregate as well as special education and white student subgroups.

The West Intermediate School, which is currently in improvement year 1 for subgroups, saw its Improvement Ratings above target for ELA and on target for math, with the special education subgroup the only one to not achieve AYP.

Wilmington High School currently has no status under No Child Left Behind and met its ELA goal and is on target for its improvement rating in math.

Benton says the Trailblazers math program at the elementary level and the Impact math program at the middle school, implemented over the last five years, are helping to drive math scores up. She added that overall English Language Arts scores were very high.

Once the district receives the results, the real administrative work of the MCAS begins. Wilmington is part of the data warehouse grant with the state and greater Lowell. Using the data warehouse, educators can do longitudinal studies on the students; enabling teachers to look at all the MCAS data results for each student going back to third grade. Using the data warehouse software a teacher can create an individual student plan to help students on an individual basis.

"The school committee has approved the curriculum revisions over the past five years. So now we're at the place where we are looking at individual students," said Benton. "In a leadership meeting this morning we are already talking about how to use the data."

The district uses the data received from MCAS in three ways. First, the information can be used to help inform classroom instruction. Second, educators will look at specific students to find gaps and then close with extra blocks of time at the middle and high school levels. Third, the School Department looks for gaps in the curriculum. Looking at the data in the aggregate can help drive curriculum changes and identify areas of general weakness, and the district can then add in extra units on fractions or prepositions for example.

Statewide, 109 districts (28 percent) and 937 schools (54 percent) are on the state's 2009 list of schools and districts in need of improvement because they did not make AYP for more than one year. Those 109 districts include 29 charter schools, eight vocational technical schools, and 17 other single-school districts. The 937 schools are located in 266 (69 percent) of the Commonwealth's school districts. In 2008, a total of 828 schools (50 percent) and 89 districts (23 percent) were identified. The 89 districts included 26 charter schools, 6 vocational technical schools, and 11 other single-school districts.

Field Hockey team no longer rebuilding

Wildcat program does a complete 180 degree turn

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The old cliché is "what a difference a year makes" and when it comes to what the Wilmington High School Varsity Field Hockey team has done through the first five games this year compared to the first five from the '08 season, it's simply incredible.

On Monday night, the Wildcats outplayed, outshot and had double the offensive corners of the returning Cape Ann League champion and currently unbeaten North Andover Scarlet Knights, but came away with a 2-0 defeat at Alumni Stadium. That loss was the first one of the season for the Wildcats, who have already equaled the total win amount from last year with its 3-1-1 record (3-13-3 record in '08).

North Andover scored two second half goals, but had to uphold a constant offensive attack from the Wildcats, which included an 8-5 advantage in shots and a 14-6 advantage in offensive corners. Wilmington had plenty of terrific scoring chances but couldn't finish which is certainly frustrating for any player and any coach.

But for Jodi MacKenzie and the rest of the team, the performance on Monday night, just like the previous four games, stands as a huge morale victory.

"Of the five games we have played, it was definitely our best game yet," said MacKenzie. "We came out right away - normally we don't come out strong until the second half and the other team comes out strong right away. Tonight as soon as North Andover scored that second goal, my girls just stopped playing and we have to learn to change that."

Through the first five games of last year's season, the Wildcats were 0-5 and were outscored 15-0. A year later, the 'Cats are 3-1-1 and have outscored its opponents 4-3, and are in second place in the CAL Large School standings, trailing only North Andover, who improved to 5-0-0 after the win on Monday, and who ruled the league last year with a 16-3-3 overall mark.

While the record, the stats, the overall improvement with skills and positioning is clearly evident just how much the program has turned around, MacKenzie said the team needs a little boost with its intensity.

"Sometimes we don't have that 'I want blood' attitude that most teams come out with in the first few minutes of a game," said MacKenzie. "But once we score a goal, that's when the girls' confidence level goes up. But the problem is whenever the other team scores on us, the girls confidence level goes down that much more and that makes it much harder (for them to rebound)."

With just under 18 minutes to go in the 30 minute first half on Monday's game, MacKenzie called a timeout. Right after that break in the action, the Wildcats started clicking with two golden opportunities to score including senior captain Liz Crannell bullet from 20 yards out being kicked out, followed by great passing from Ryanne Newhouse to Danielle Sugrue, whose shot from the left side of the net was also booted from the crease area.

Wilmington High senior goalie Nicole Luz, who never played field hockey up to this year after spending the last few seasons as a member of the JV Girls Soccer team, makes one of her saves during Monday night's loss to North Andover. Luz is one of the many reasons why the Wildcats have already equaled its win total from all of last year. The Wildcats are 3-1-1 and stand in second place in the Cape Ann League standings. (photo by JoeBrownphotos.com).

After the halftime break was over with the game still scoreless, North Andover got on the board in the first minute of the second half. Michelle Martin gave a heads up pass to a speedy Alexandra Moen, who found the back of the net for what proved to be the game winner.

"We had more shots, more corners and I thought we had the possession a lot more, but the only thing is they had two girls who are really quick and that hurt us," said MacKenzie. "We're not quick. We can read the field which makes us able to place the ball, but for us to get to the ball quicker than the other team it's hard for us. That's our only downfall. But we're playing much more consistent than we ever have."

Certainly thus far the team is playing much more consistent than it has over the last five or six years, especially at this time a year ago.

"Last year I thought we had a good team but we just couldn't put the ball in the net," said the second-year head coach. "I have goal scorers on this team, except tonight we couldn't get one. We had plenty of opportunities and that's what kills me. With as many opportunities as we had, we should have been able to get on the scoreboard at least once."

Trailing 1-0, Wilmington continued to apply all kinds of offensive pressure. Off one of the team's seven second half corners, Newhouse sent a pass out to Cristina Wilson, who dished it off to Liz Crannell and her chip shot was saved. Then right after that, Wilson had the NA goalie dead to right but her shot just missed the far right corner, forcing NA to call a timeout to try to regroup. That they did as three minutes later on a fluke shot, Candice Waldie flipped a high shot over goalie Nicole Luz for the second goal of the game.

"I'm sure Nicole Luz is down on herself," said MacKenzie about her new goalie who came over from the JV Girls soccer team last year. "That second goal just rolled in and I don't think it hit anyone, so I think that's why it confused her. Any goalie is going to come down on herself thinking that it's all their fault, but what they don't realize is it's a team of eleven players."

"It's just like the forward gets a shot and scores and she think she owns the team. But really the (forwards) don't because it's (ten other players) who had something to do with it but the (forwards) still try to get all the glory and try to be the hero."

Last Thursday, Wilmington defeated Newburyport, 1-0. Newhouse scored the lone goal of the game coming just ten minutes in on a set up from Crannell which originated from an offensive corner.

Wilmington is back in action with another tough CAL game on Friday against Manchester-Essex, who is undefeated from the small school division. This contest is also back at Alumni Stadium but to be started at 3:45. Then on Tuesday, Wilmington will host Ipswich (2-3-0) at 3:45 which will be followed by three road games to Georgetown (1-3-2), Rockport (1-2-1) and Lynnfield (4-1-0).

Boys soccer team remains perfect at 3-0

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Wilmington High School varsity boys soccer team posted its second straight 3-0 shut out to open the 2009 season with a home victory played last Thursday afternoon against North Reading at the North Intermediate School.

The combination of Michael Murphy (3 assists), Caleb Rogers and Chris DiCecca (1 goal and 1 assist each) led the way offensively for the Wildcats as defensively the team didn't give up a single shot as goal-tenders Marty Bamberg and John Malone have seen one combined shot over the first 160 minutes of play this season.

"We played pretty well I thought," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "We had a lot of intensity at the start of the game and that seemed to take (North Reading) out of it. We wanted to focus on coming out strong and going right at them. And we did getting those (three first half) goals. I would have liked to see us get a few more goals in the second half and finish off those chances we had, and I know we had the wind going against us and that didn't help. It just seems like when you take the starters out of the game and you put them back in to start the second half, they aren't playing with that same intensity and you can see that. They are controlling the play, but just don't have that same intensity. But this is a good team win and everyone contributed so it's good to see that happen."

Wilmington controlled the play, the possession and the tempo of the entire game. The Wildcats got on the scoreboard three times in the first half, starting with senior midfielder Michael Murphy getting involved in all three tallies. Off the team's third corner kick of the first half, Murphy booted a long kick to the outside of the net. Teammate Chris DiCecca was standing off the far post and headed the corner kick down to the ground to the inside post where Caleb Rogers was able to take the ball, turn on his defender and slide a shot to the low corner for what turned out to be the game winning tally.

Shortly thereafter Wilmington struck again. This time Murphy came down the right sideline and gave a nice cross pass to Rogers, who then found a wide open Andy Owens, who buried his scoring chance giving him his third goal of the young season and making it 2-0 game.

The offensive flurry didn't stop as the Wildcats grabbed one more goal before the halftime break. Off a corner kick, Murphy took a low shot that ended up getting back to him. That's when he lofted a high ball to the far right side of the net where DiCecca headed it home making it 3-0 game, while putting an exclamation point on the team's scoring on the day.

Both teams didn't score in the second half, although Wilmington had five shots on net, and again continued to carry the play throughout the entire 40 minute half.

"Defensively we've been real sound so far," said Scanlon, with the defensive unit being led by Gott Seanchandi, Colin Foley and Jimmy Marra. "And the possession game has been big - if we have it, they don't. I thought we pressured the ball real well (against North Reading) and we forced them to turn it over and I think that's when skill comes in."

Wilmington is back in action with a road trip to Rockport on Thursday night beginning at 6:15 pm.

"We have a few tough games coming up with Rockport being one of them," said Scanlon. "They set it up where they have just two night games all season and we're one of them. They have a real solid goalie who is keeping them in games, so they are hoping they can trip you up. We'll see about the weather as the wind can be a big factor up there as you aren't too far away from the water."

On Tuesday night, Wilmington improved to 3-0 with a 2-1 win over Lynnfield at home. Murphy and Rogers scored single goals one minute apart in the second half which was the difference in the victory. Murphy scored in the 57th minute on a shot from 20 yards out, and then a minute later, Rogers was taken down in the box resulting in a penalty kick and he buried the ball to the back of the net for the eventual game winner. Bamberg made three saves in the net to record the win, while, Marra, Foley and Nick Godzyk all put forth strong efforts in the victory.

Volleyball squad picks up second win

The Wilmington High volleyball team went 1-2 this past week, picking up a non-league victory over Salem High, while suffering defeats to non-league foe Revere along with Cape Ann League rival Masconomet.

As the record would indicate, it was a week of mixed results for the Wildcats as they were outstanding in both their 3-1 loss to Masco last Wednesday, as well as their 3-0 win over Salem on Friday, but were not at their best in a 3-0 loss to Revere on Monday.

The Wildcats now hold a 2-3 overall record and are 1-2 in the Cape Ann league.

The Masco loss was probably the Wildcats best performance of the week, although they ended up on the wrong end of the 3-1 final. According to coach Mark Staffier, each game was within just a couple of points and the Wildcats were hanging right with the perennial CAL power tied at 1-1 after two games.

"We played real well against Masco. It was probably one of the best matches that I have coached in three years," Staffier said. "There was a playoff atmosphere throughout the match and all of the games were very close."

The Wildcats played so well in fact, that it was difficult for Staffier to point out just a couple of individuals who stood out, as the entire lineup of senior setter and captain Amanda Hollenbeck, senior defensive specialist and captain Stephanie Kelly, junior middle hitter Katie Aoki, senior middle hitter Amy Fahey, senior defensive specialist Carissa Tilton, senior outside hitters Jill Fudge and Randi Davis, juniors Anna Perullo, Taylor Hanley and Chelsea Westerberg and sophomore Ashley White all played well.

"Everyone played well. It great to see us play like that," Staffier said. "I told them that of course you hate to lose, but it was one of those games where it was

Although their record doesn't back it up, the Wilmington High School Girls Soccer team has been playing pretty well for the most part. Take away a few minutes here and there, and the team could easily have its 0-3-2 record turned around.

"It's the same record we started out with last year," said head coach Sue Hendee, who then watched the '08 team finish with an 8-9-2 overall record which included a first round state tournament loss to Central Catholic. "We faced Masco and North Andover, who will be the top two teams in the (Cape Ann League) large school division, and then we faced North Reading, Lynnfield and Georgetown, who will be the top three schools in the small school division. So we have played the top teams in each division. We proved that we could play with all of those teams and I think we can hang with anyone. But right now we just have to take advantage of the opportunities other teams give us and keep our heads in the game for all 80 minutes and we'll be fine."

This past week, the Wildcats tied North Reading, 1-1, before losing to undefeated Georgetown, 3-2 and ending the week of play with a 3-1 loss to Lynnfield on Tuesday afternoon. In the tie against North Reading, Rachel Grabar scored the lone goal on an assist from Holly Niemiec, and keeper Jackie Zaremba made seven saves. In the loss to Georgetown, Brittney McLaughlin scored both goals with assists going to Kaitlyn Souza on the first and Julie Braid on the second.

And against Lynnfield, Ally Robbins scored the goal which was unassisted. Zaremba made 9 saves in the net.

"Georgetown was good," said Hendee. "I thought it was a very even game. I'm not disappointed with the way we've been playing. The games we've played have been very close, and today against Lynnfield we played a very good first half, but we didn't do enough in the second half. I thought we did very well in the first half except we had one mental breakdown which led them to a goal. But besides that it was a back-and-forth game in the first half. The second half, I don't know, we just didn't play well."

"And Friday against North Reading, we played well, but we just didn't take advantage of the opportunities they gave us."

Wilmington has a very busy week ahead with a home game Thursday afternoon against Rockport, followed by games with Tewksbury, Manchester-Essex and Ipswich on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, respectively. Ipswich is coming off a huge win, defeating perennial league power Masconomet.

WHS Cross Country

A complete sweep. Nothing better than that.

That's just what happened with the Wilmington High School boys and girls cross country teams during last Wednesday's home meet against Georgetown. Both teams not only won by the 15-50 score, but both teams had the top seven finishers in each race.

The boys are now 2-1, after not winning a single meet last year, and the girls are now 1-2 on the young season, while, both Georgetown teams fell to 0-3.

In the boys race, Zack Sears continues his tremendous early season success by coming in first overall at 17:43, a personal best for him. He was followed by freshman Stephen Halas (18:09) and Tom Valente (18:24), who finished just 41 seconds apart, a huge improvement for the team.

"Zack has really run well so far," said head coach Tom Bradley. "We had a big three last year and Stephen now gives us four very good runners at the top."

Cole Pepper (19:14), Jake Russo (19:28), Sean Keane (10:03) and John Weber (20:06) finished fourth through seventh respectively, all within 52 seconds of one another.

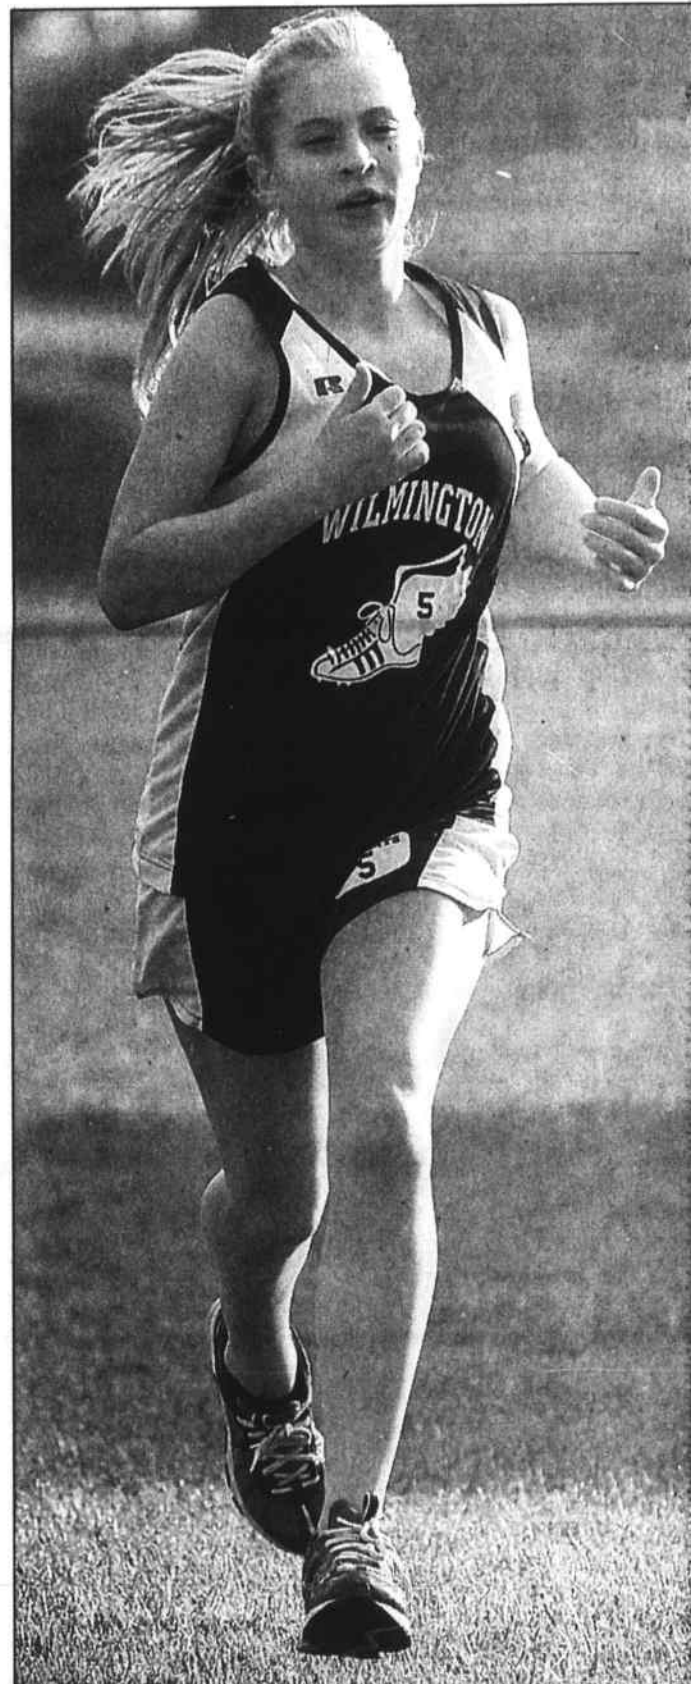

"(All seven runners) ran a personal record and closed the game with the top guys (so that was big for us)," said Bradley.

Turning to the girls race, eighth grader Sydnee Russo was the top overall finisher coming in at 20:31 which is a personal best for her. She was followed by Nikki Sirignano (22:04), Courtney Collins (22:20) and Jess Burke (22:27), who were just 23 seconds apart. Rachel Alatalo, Michelle Barnes and Michelle Filippi rounded out the team's top seven finishers. Bradley said that both Cali Pepper and Lori Fletcher ran well, as they finished 8th and 9th overall.

On Wednesday both the boys and the girls teams faced Lynnfield and Hamilton-Wenham in a home tri-meet with results not known as of presstime.

WHS Golf

The Wilmington High golf team hit a bit of a rough patch this past week after starting the season with a 2-0 record, as they dropped two out of three matches on the week, falling to Pentucket last Tuesday by a score of 150-123, and to Lynnfield last Thursday by a score of 164-133. The Wildcats, however, did wrap up their week in impressive fashion this Tuesday with a 154-118 win over Rockport.

With the 1-2 record for the week, the Wildcats record now stands at 3-3 overall and 2-3 in the Cape Ann League.

In the Pentucket match at Bradford Country Club, the Wildcats were without senior star Aubrey Ungvasky who missed the match due to illness. Senior captain Nick Bouteres led the Wildcats with three birdies and 26 points on the day, but it was not enough to keep the Wildcats from coming up short.

In their home match against undefeated Lynnfield last Thursday, the Wildcats improved their scoring, but still fell short to their powerful opponents. Andrew Spurr led the way for Wilmington, shooting a 37 for 36 points.

Things went much better against Rockport at home several players playing well, particularly Spurr and Bouteres who accumulated 31 points each, while Ungvasky had 27 points and sophomore John Keough had 25 points.

Fifth annual 5K Road Race this Sunday

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO

On Sunday, the fifth annual Wilmington Half Marathon and 5K Road Race will take place throughout the streets of Wilmington. The race started in 2004 as a celebration in honor of Wilmington's 275th birthday, and it has been a success ever since.

Pre-registration starts at 8:00 a.m. and it will begin on Washington Street. The races, which includes the half marathon (13.5 miles) and the 5K (3.1 miles) run or walk will begin at 10 a.m.

High school students looking to run in any of the races on Sunday have to pay only $10. For all other participants, it is a $20 pre-registration fee or a $25 post-registration fee for the 5K road race, and it is a $25 pre-registration fee or a $30 post-registration fee for the half marathon. It is a $10 registration fee for children ages 6-17. Group rates are also available for 10+ runners or walkers.

Last year the committee was proud to be able to give five $1,000 scholarships to the top five students in math, science, English, history, and foreign language. The committee was also able to give to the Wilmington Community Fund/Food Pantry in time for Thanksgiving. This year we are hoping to be able to give the five scholarships once again, and we have picked TOPS Soccer to receive some of the proceeds.

The race is fun for all ages. Not only are there water stations and a professional timer for the runners, but there are also have face paintings, hot dogs, ice cream and music for everyone. Medals are given out to all the top half marathon and 5K runner winners, in several different categories. All walkers receive a ribbon for the great job they do.

"I like the day of the race when you see the runners coming across the finish line," said Gentile. "They have accomplished something for themselves and you see it in their faces and you feel so proud of them. I could never do what they do. I give every one of them so much credit for what they do. I always tease 'I don't run in the race, I just run the race for you to run it.'

Gentile joined the race officially the second annual year after she just helped the day of the race the first year.

"My responsibilities are everything and anything," said Gentile. "We all work very hard together. If something needs to be done and I have the time I do it. The same is for the Assistant Director Laura Ahearn and we work very well together.

We are like one person and if there is someone to contact either one of us do it. We don't assign jobs and we just do what needs to be done."

Last year Jim Quadros of Lowell was the overall winner coming in at 17:20.6. Rebecca Connolly and Gary Miele were the top two Wilmington finishers coming in at 20:16 and 20:32, respectively.

just unbelievable what we were able to accomplish."

Against Salem, of the Northeast Conference, Staffier was able to get playing time for everybody as the Wildcats rolled to a lopsided 3-0 victory, winning each game by a comfortable margin.

"Everyone played and everyone played well in that one," Staffier said.

On Monday, the Wildcats hosted another non league foe from the Northeast Conference when they took on Revere, but things did not go nearly as well, as they suffered a 3-0 defeat. Unlike the Masco loss where Staffier was very pleased with his team's effort in a losing cause, the Revere loss had a much different feel to it.

"We were just not there to play and I am not sure why,"

Staffier said. "I don't know if it was a Monday thing or what but we could not do anything right. Nobody was picking up the slack the way we normally do. And it was a tough one to lose because it was game we needed to win with North Reading and North Andover as our next two matches"

With the top two teams in the league on the docket for the upcoming week, it will certainly present a daunting task, but Staffier is not giving in to the league powers, as long as his team plays as well as they are capable of. He is hoping that the loss to Revere will remind his team of what can happen if they do not play up to their potential.

"I hope they understand that," Staffier said. "But I also know that even though North Reading will be tough, we showed with the way we played against Masco that we could have won if just a couple of things had gone our way. If we played against Revere the way we played against Masco we would have won easily. There would be nothing better than to bounce back by beating the number one team in the league."

But as good as Staffier felt about his team's effort against Masco and against Salem, he also knows they must continue to improve.

"It was great to see our potential so early in the season, just four games in," Staffier said. "But everybody in the league is going to keep getting better and if we just accept our effort against Masco as good enough we will not continue to improve. We need to keep working to get better."

Rams Girls Soccer team remain undefeated

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Heading into last week, Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud knew that his team would be facing their toughest tests of the young season, with CAC rival Northeast Regional along with non-league rival Blackstone Valley on the docket for the week. Michaud had predicted that he would know a lot more about where his team stood by the end of the week.

After a 2-0 week where the Lady Rams outscored their opposition by a total of 9-2, to improve to 4-0 on the season (3-0 in the CAC large), where Shawsheen now stands is atop the CAC standings.

Last Wednesday, Shawsheen faced Northeast Regional in their first road game of the season against best team they had faced to date, and they responded in brilliant fashion, rolling to a 6-1 rout of their CAC rivals. They followed that up on Monday afternoon with a 3-1 comeback victory at home over a talented Blackstone Valley squad.

"We have been playing very well," Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud said. "In years past, our games with Northeast have always come down to on or two goals. It has never been like that, so it was a little surprising. And against Blackstone we dominated play even though we were tied 0-0 at the half and they took a 1-0 lead in the second half."

In the Blackstone game with Blackstone having taken the 1-0 lead that Michaud referred to just two minutes into the second half, senior co-captain Jenna Zechner took over, scoring three goals in the half en route to the 3-1 victory with her first goal coming off a great set up from co-captain Jenn Carroll of Wilmington just three minutes later, and added the game winner at the 15 minute mark of the half.

"I think when they scored it kind of woke up the team, and Jenna just kind of took over from there," Michaud said. "Jenn set Jenna up nicely for the first goal and on the second one Jenna put a great shot into the top corner that the goalie just could not touch."

Sophomore goalie Jen Curtis faced her toughest test of the year as well and made eight saves to earn the victory, and Michaud said the win was not only a result of her great play, but the defense as well.

"She just got caught in a tough spot on the only goal she allowed, but other than that she played very well," Michaud said. "But a lot of it was our shut down defense. Kim Barriss, Taylor Bergstrom and Danielle Hayes marked up their top scorer very well, especially after she assisted on the first goal. They shut her down and it shut down their offense."

Against Northeast, the Lady Rams got a pair of goals from sophomore forward Charlotte Ardini, along with four other goal scorers on their way to the 6-1 rout. Other goals scorers for Shawsheen were Rachel Blanchard, Janel Madore, Jenn Carroll and Amanda Vance.

"It's great to get that kind of balance and a lot of that comes from Jenn and Jenna and their passing up front," Michaud said. "They don't just fire the ball one net. They look for the good shot or look to make the good pass."

The Lady Rams will resume their schedule on Thursday afternoon at home against arch rival Greater Lowell.

"Greater Lowell should be a good test for us," Michaud said. "We always look forward to playing them, so it was nice to have a good test like Blackstone to prepare for them."

Boys Soccer

The Shawsheen boys soccer team saw its week get off to a rough start last week with a tough 4-1 loss to CAC rival Lynn Tech at home on Thursday afternoon. But the Rams responded very well to adversity with an impressive 1-0 road victory over rival Greater Lowell on Monday. The 1-1 week left the Rams with a 2-2 overall record, and the same record within the CAC.

In the win over Greater Lowell, lone goal was scored by sophomore forward Sal Nicco Riparo with 13 minutes left in the game off of an assist by junior forward Kris Galdi. Galdi hustled into the Greater Lowell zone after the ball, and put a shot on the Greater Lowell goalie, and Riparo was right there to pounce on the rebound out front and get the Rams on the scoreboard.

Also playing well for the Rams were Jeff Jaimes, Mike O'Connell, Leo Riberio, Alex Turk and Dan Serrano.

While the Rams have struggled at times in the early going this season, coach Dick Barriss is hoping that a dramatic win over their arch rival may help jump start their season with North Shore and Blue Hills on the schedule the rest of the week followed by Amesbury next Monday.

"I would like to think that is the case. This is a very key week for us," Barriss said. "It could be a make or break week for us. I was concerned that if we had lost the Greater Lowell game, it would be a tough week for us with dropping to 1-3. Now, if we win the next couple we have a chance to be 4-2 heading into the Amesbury game."

Shawsheen senior goalie Alex Perex picked up the shutout for the Rams in the victory.

In the loss to Lynn Tech, the Rams fell into a 3-0 halftime hole and could never recover despite an early second half goal from senior forward Mike Turk. Barriss felt that the loss was a result of the Rams facing a talented opponent on a day when his team was not at their best.

"I would say it was a combination of the two. They are a very fast team, so fast in fact that they can send extra players up front and still get back on defense to help out," Barriss said. "But we also made some mistakes that led directly to a couple of goals for them. They are a good team, but we can play better."

Barriss knows that his team will have to play better in the coming week if they are going to put themselves in position to battle for a tournament berth and league title implications later in the season.

"We still want to compete for a league title and the voke title but this is a team that needs to find its own niche," Barriss said. "This is not like last year when we had a lot of experienced kids so we need to dispel that and find out who we are and play well."

Golf

The Shawsheen golf team picked up three big Colonial Athletic League victories this week, while dropping a non-league decision to Austin Prep on Tuesday afternoon. The 3-1 week left the Rams with a 4-2 overall record, and an undefeated mark of 4-0 in the CAL.

While the league wins are clearly the most important part of the season and they have given the Rams the early upper hand in the quest for a league title in their first year in the CAL, coach Tom Struthers would like to see his team perform better in their non-league matches, such as Tuesday when they fell to Austin Prep by a score of 141-134. The Rams lost their previous non-league match to Burlington by a score of 167-166.

"We have only had two non-league matches and for whatever reason we have not played well," Struthers said. "We are doing something to ourselves, where maybe we are psyching ourselves out before the match or something, but I know we can play better in those matches and have a chance to win them as well."

As disappointed as Struthers was with the non-league Austin Prep loss, he was just as pleased with the three league victories, coming over Bay Path last Thursday by a score of 186-156, Nashoba Tech on Wednesday by a score of 185-154 and Worcester Voke tech on Monday by a score of 188-158.

"This league is interesting," Struthers said. "We don't know a lot about the teams or the courses, but we have gone out and played very well. This is kind of the puzzle we are trying to figure out, how we can play so well in some matches and not in others."

One player who has not been inconsistent at all has been senior captain Brett Fredrickson who has been averaging about a 37 in each of the team's matches. He was he medalist against Bay Path with a low round of 36.

"He's been dynamite," Struthers said. "I can't say anything bad about him at all. He plays a strong and mentally focused game. If he makes a bad shot, he stays focused and comes right back with a good shot to follow it up."

Sophomores Stephen Murphy and Chris Clayton have been playing very well, with Murphy shooting 38 against Bay Path and taking medalist honors against Worcester with a 37. Crayton meanwhile, shot a 39 against Nashoba and a 41 against both Bay Path and Worcester.

"They are doing very well," Struthers said. "Murphy has been dynamite, just very consistent and Chris has been very consistent as well shooting some great scores for us."

Junior Corey Gendreau shot a 39 against Nashoba Tech and Struthers sees even better days ahead for him.

"He's another kid with a lot of talent," Struthers said. "He hits the ball very far, he just has to get the rest of his game going consistently. He got us 17 points today (vs. Austin Prep) which is not bad at all."

As Struthers said, his team is rather unfamiliar with most of the courses and opponents they are playing, but they are clearly reacting well to the change with their undefeated mark within the loop. Struthers has been thrilled with their play in the league so far, but he knows that even tougher days are ahead.

"In the past in the voke tournaments we have lost to Assabet or Blackstone, and we have not played them yet, but I feel good about our place in the league," Struthers said. "We play Monty Tech on Wednesday and they are supposed to be the top team in the league right now so we will find out a lot more about ourselves. But I would say this is one of the best teams we have had."

Volleyball

The Shawsheen Volleyball team is off to an impressive 4-1 start to their season after going 2-1 this past week with wins over CAC rival Northeast at home Monday, preceded by a pair of raid matches, a 3-0 loss to CAC rival fellowtown on Thursday and a 3-0 victory over CAC rival North Shore on Friday.

In the Northeast win on Monday, in which Shawsheen rolled by scores of 25-13, 25-11, 25-12, they did not actually start out at their best, but they quickly got their game in order and proceeded to roll to victory from there.

"In the first game we started out pretty sloppy. We were up 13-11, but we had already served six balls out," Shawsheen coach Chet Flynn said. "So we called timeout and kind of got our point across that we were not playing well enough and they responded and we won fairly easily from there."

Junior setter Laura Sorenson was outstanding for the Lady Rams with 14 service points, while junior setter Jess Houghton continued her outstanding play this season with six kills and 12 assists.

"Laura came up big for us in the first game. We were up 14-11 when we got the ball back with her serve and by the time she was done we were up 24-11," Flynn said. "And Jess has been outstanding all year. We had her setting most of the time, but on occasion she gets the set back because she is an outstanding hitter as well. She has been great either setting or hitting for us."

Junior middle hitter Allyson Trayah of Tewksbury played a very strong defensive game for Shawsheen, as she has all season long.

"Allyson was very active in the back row for us, covering lots of ground and keeping ball alive," Flynn said. "In fact, in that first game when everyone was sort of sluggish, Allyson was one player I could not say that about. She was hustling all the time, but still very much in control."

Nobody seemed to be very in control for the Lady Rams in the loss to Fellowship, in which they fell by scores of 25-20, 25-21, 25-18. For Flynn, it was a difficult match to watch.

"That was on of the worst matches I have ever seen our team play," Flynn said. "I mean we stayed in the match and the scores were kind of close, but I never felt we had a chance to win because we were playing so poorly. We served poorly, we let ball hit the floor and we did not seem to react to things."

Shawsheen did bounce back nicely the next day against a rebuilding North Shore squad, winning handily by scores of 25-11, 25-15, 25-12. Houghton had 20 service points in the victory, while Trayah was once again outstanding on defense and senior outside hitters Amy Decelles of Tewksbury and Holly Zechner continued the consistently strong play they have shown this season.

Wildcats 'Butters' up to Rams

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech football will undoubtedly come up against some talented players as they work their way through their Division 3A Commonwealth Athletic Conference schedule this season, but it is very unlikely they will come across a player the caliber of Wilmington High senior running back Evan Butters.

Of course, it is very rare that any team has to face a player of Butters caliber and he proved his worth for the Wildcats, piling up 205 yards of total offense and three touchdowns last Friday night at Alumni Field to lead the Wildcats to a 35-2 victory in a non-league contest.

The Division 2A Wildcats rolled to a 28-0 halftime lead, with Butters piling up 195 of his yards, while holding the Rams to just 44 yards of total offense in the first half, and 114 yards overall. Wilmington, meanwhile, racked up 406 yards of total offense with 274 coming in the first half. Shawsheen scored their only points of the game on third quarter safety. The win improved Wilmington to 2-0 on the season while Shawsheen dropped to 0-2 with both teams beginning their league schedules next week.

It did not take long for Wilmington to apply the pressure to Shawsheen and to capitalize on Rams mistake. After taking the opening kickoff, the Rams faced a 3rd and 7 from their own 27 yard line when senior quarterback Kevin White of Tewksbury eluded tacklers for a brilliant 12 yard run and apparent first down, but at the end of the run, the ball was stripped and recovered by Wilmington's Chris Frissore. A personal foul penalty at the end of the play gave the Wildcats the ball at the Shawsheen 26 yard line.

Frissore owned the opening moments of the game, as one play after the fumble recovery he got open in the corner of the end zone and hauled in a perfect pass from junior quarterback Sean Hanley. Frissore then kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 9:48 left in the first quarter.

"We were able to capitalize on the turnover and score quickly," Wilmington coach Mike Barry said. "It certainly helped us to get off to a fast start."

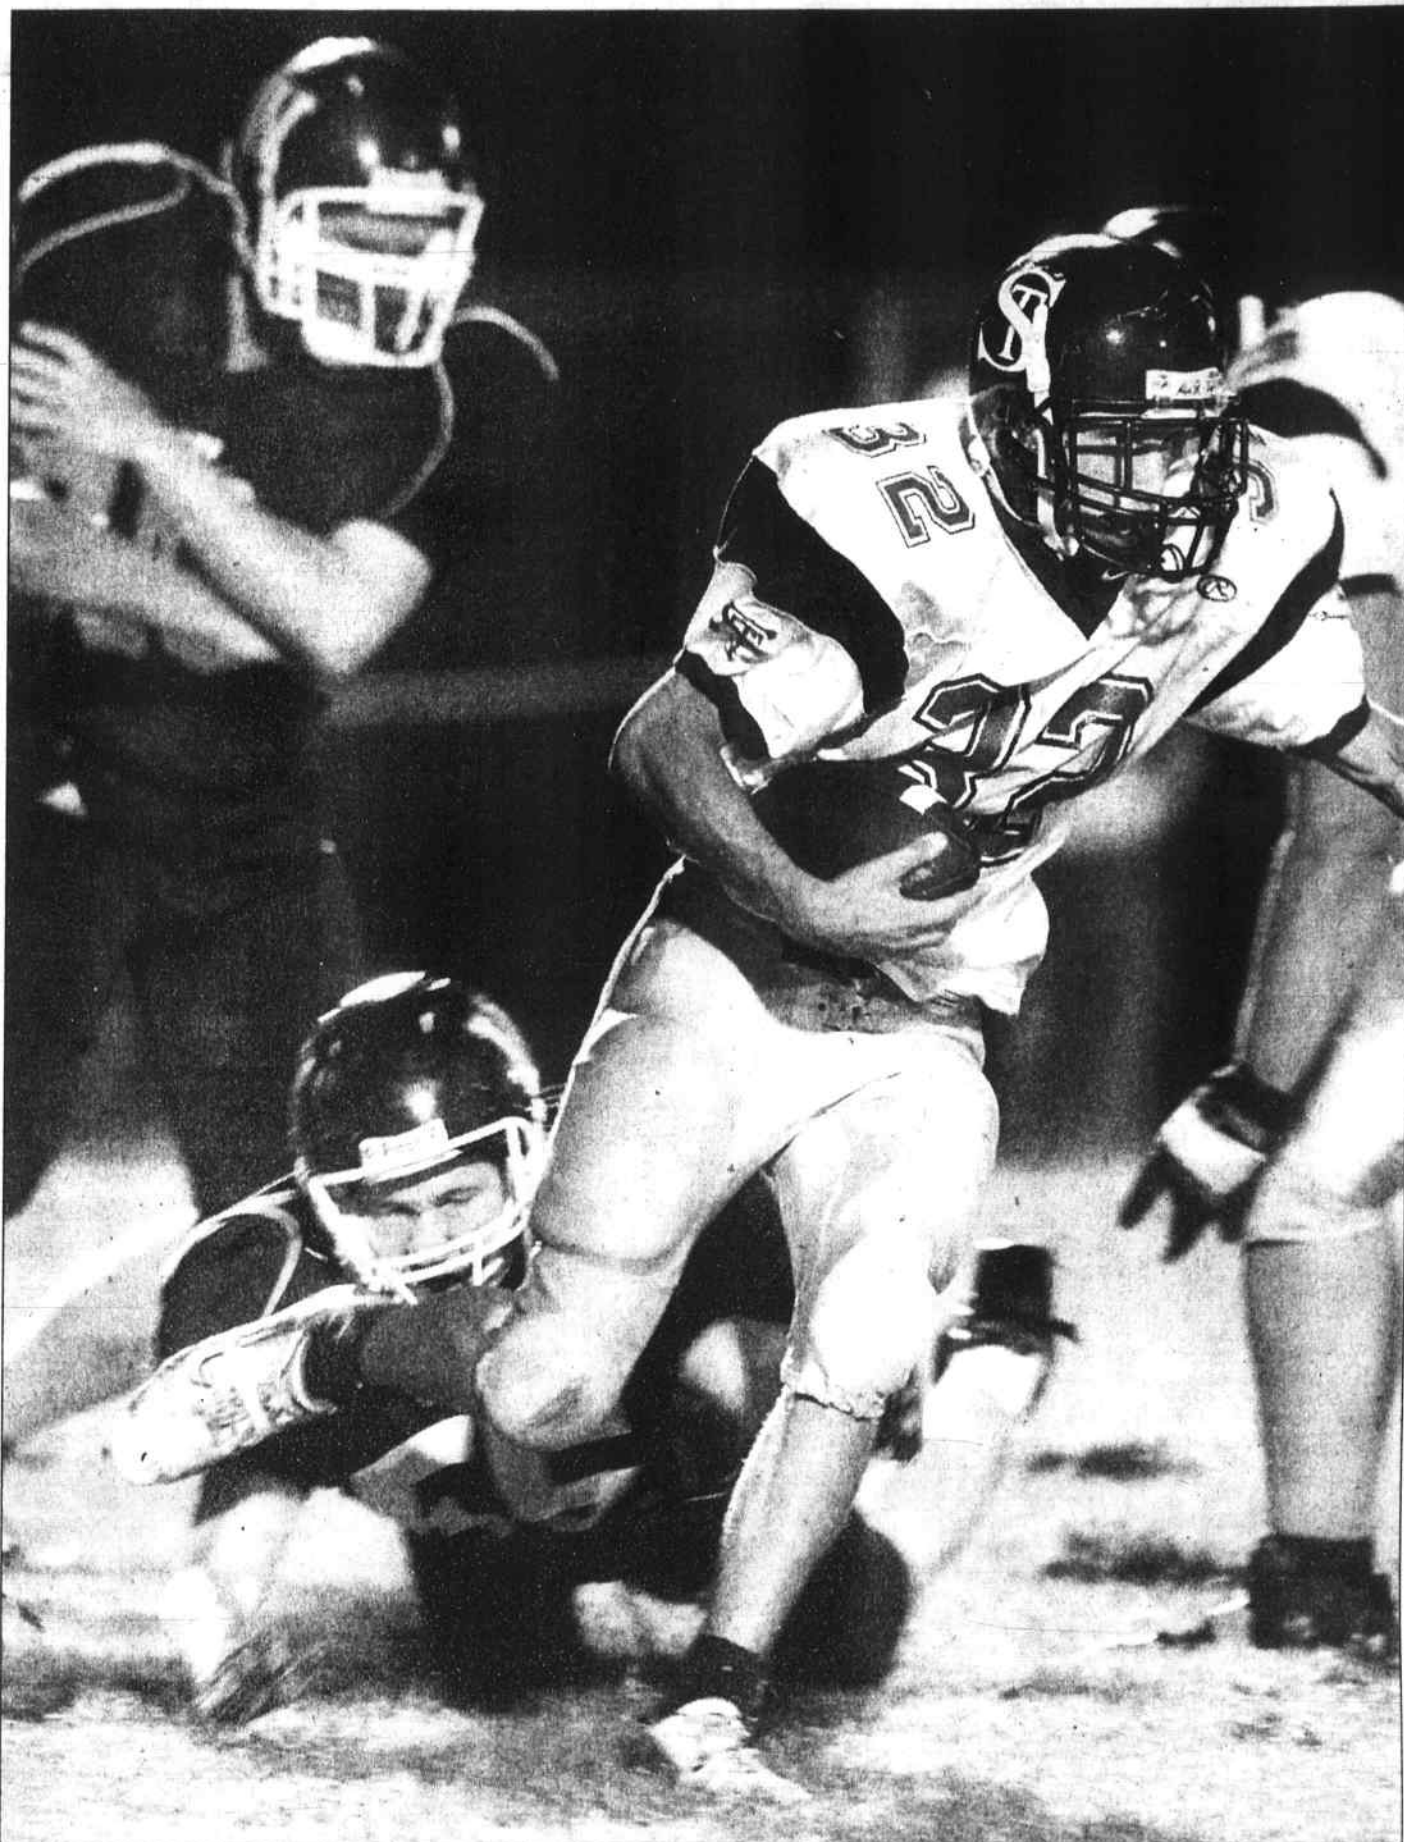

The game had its sloppy moments for both teams as evidenced by the next two drives when each team turned the ball over on a fumble. Wilmington had a chance to get on the board later in the first quarter, putting together and eight play drive, but junior Kevin Moriarty was swarmed under by the entire Shawsheen defensive line on a fourth and one play from the Ram nine yard line.

The Wildcats apparently decided that the quick strike route was their best path to the end zone and on their next possession they did just that, needing just one play for Butters to score his first touchdown of the game on a 40 yard run with under a minute left in the first quarter. This time the extra point failed and Wilmington held a 13-0 lead.

After a Shawsheen three and out, the Wildcats went back to work on a five play, 76 yard drive, with the final 56 yards coming on another brilliant Butters (9 carries, 125 yards) run, as he barreled over a Rams defensive back and then raced to the end zone for a 21-0 lead after Hanley ran in the two point conversion with 8:10 left in the half.

Wilmington had been dominating on the ground behind Butters, but they went to the air for their final score of the first half, needing just two plays to move 75 yards, with Hanley connecting first with tight end Brian Hurley for 18 yards and on the next play hitting Butters in stride at about the Shawsheen 20 yard line for a 57 yard scoring strike that made the score 28-0 with Frissore's second extra point of the night.

Wildcats 'Butters' up to Rams in non-league Football game

"Sean throws a good ball," Barry said of his quarterback. "We were a little conservative last week so we decided to open it up a little this week so they could not gang up on stopping the run."

Shawsheen coach Al Costabile was impressed with Wilmington's ability to mix the run and pass.

"I've got a lot of respect for Wilmington," Costabile said. "That is a real solid football team with a balanced attack."

The Rams tried to earn some respect of their own early in the third quarter when senior defensive end Andrew Companschi of Wilmington recovered a fumble at midfield, getting the Rams started on their best scoring threat of the game. With senior running back Cory Foss leading the way out of the backfield both running and catching the ball, the Rams moved down to the Wilmington 11 yard line, but a fourth and one pass fell incomplete and Wilmington took over.

"This game was a step up for us," Costabile said. "We challenged the boys at the half to play a great second half to give us something to build on as we move toward our season and I thought we did just that."

Shawsheen did get on the scoreboard one play later when junior linebacker Ryan Cassidy sacked Hanley in the end zone for a safety and a 28-2 ball game with 2:10 left in the third quarter. But any momentum the Rams might have gained was quickly wiped out when the Wildcat defense once again stepped up and forced a three and out, with the Rams punting on the final play of the third quarter.

With the game pretty much in hand for the Wildcats, Barry pulled Butters and Moriarty took over as the main runner in the backfield for Wilmington's next drive, and the junior made the most of his opportunity, carrying the ball on all five plays of the drive, picking up 82 of his 102 yards on the game, and capping the drive with a great 22 yard run with 8:20 left in the game.

Despite the lopsided nature of the final score,

Barry had words of praise for Shawsheen, and of course for his own team as well.

"It is a rivalry game so you never know what is going to happen. I have known Al for a couple of years now and he does a real good job. They really come to play," Barry said. "For us, we did some really good stuff, but there are still some things we need to clean up. I was most pleased that we tried some things we had worked on in pre-season, but not in week 1 and they worked very well for us."

Co-Offensive Player of the Week award in the Liberty League.

The sophomore running back punched in two scores from 1-yard out and also had a 52-yard touchdown reception. He had nine carries for 54 yards, with a long of 34 yards.

Mello now has five touchdowns on the year, which leads the team. He has 25 carries for 126 yards to go along with four catches for 59 yards.

The win was the second straight shutout for the Engineers. They are undefeated at 3-0 and will host RPI on Saturday in the 103rd Annual Transit Trophy Game.

Stephen Potner continued his last game heroics for the UMass Lowell soccer team, as he scored his second game-winning goal of the year in a 2-1 victory over Assumption on Saturday.

The junior forward, a Wilmington native, scored off a volley in the box in the 58th minute, 12 minutes after teammate Jeffrey Danso had evened up the score 1-1. Potner had three shots in the game, two of them on goal.

Potner had two goals last week in a 2-0 win over New Haven. He leads the team with three goals and also has an assist. His 15 shots lead the team as well.

The River Hawks boast a record of 3-2, 2-1 in the Northeast-10 Conference. They will face No. 8 Southern New Hampshire on Wednesday at home.

and fellow Tewksbury resident Jennifer Carr finished in 20th place in the sub-varsity race with a time of 20:30.

UMass Lowell travels to Western Massachusetts this weekend as they will compete in the Plansky Invitational at Williams College next Saturday.

Wilmington's Mike Fitzgerald had three catches for 40 yards for the MIT football team, but it wasn't enough as they fell to Framingham State 20-16 last Saturday in the team's home opener. Fitzgerald had a long catch of 32 yards in the loss.

The senior wide receiver had two catches for nine yards a week before in a 49-27 loss to Mass Maritime. The Engineers travel to Nichols College this Saturday to try to get their first win of the year.

Chris Byrne had three tackles, one of them being solo, as the Northeastern football team lost to Youngstown State 38-21 on Saturday. The senior linesman from Tewksbury has eight tackles so far this year, which is good enough for ninth on the team. Northeastern remained winless with the loss and will head to Philadelphia on Saturday to face Villanova.

There are a few local road races to check out this weekend. The first one is in Tewksbury on Saturday. The "FARM 1st Annual 5K" run will be held at 9:00 am on Livingston Street. Those interested should visit the race's Web site: <http://www.joanpilch.com/pages/run5kfortheFarm.html>.

Girls U10-5 soccer team battles Tewksbury

The Wilmington Girls U-10-5 travel team hosted Tewksbury this past Saturday September 19th. The Wildcats took the field without two of their teammates Marissa and Jillian and the girls knew that without these two key players they would all have to step up their game and the ladies did just that.

The Wildcat forward line of Alanah Colantuoni, Julia McLaughlin and Samantha Fusco immediately took control of the game. This talented trio moved quickly into Tewksbury territory and Sami started the attack with several shots that rang off the post and just missed their target. Alanah also fired off some well placed shots but she was also denied a goal by a couple of unlucky bounces. Julia moved inside the eighth as she kept the volley of shots continuing and although they looked like goals the Tewksbury keeper scooped the soccer balls up inches from the goal line.

Tewksbury made their presence known and defenders Heather Beck and Alexandra Pitz had their hand full with the Tewksbury forwards but they proved their mettle as Heather charged into the tallest Tewksbury player and stripped the ball away. Alex showed her defensive skills by making several key plays that surely would have been goals.

The Wildcat ladies put their faith in the skills of Goal keeper Kendra Prezioso who continues to improve and is on a path to be one of the premier keepers in the league. Kendra kept the Wilmington team in this game by turning away numerous scoring attempts.

Unfortunately Tewksbury struck first and the Wildcats quickly found themselves down 2-0. Wilmington forward Alyssa Bernazani decided it was time to hit back as she moved inside the tewksbury six yard line and launched an attack with her shots just missing by inches, her teammate Paige Gallucci also got into the action, Paige's kicks were powerful but the Tewksbury keeper was in just the right place to block them. Kayla Blonigen moved into the zone using her foot skills and muscling players out of the way but her bid for a goal was also denied.

The Wilmington girls began to think that there was a shield around the Tewksbury net when forward Alanah broke the barrier firing her first goal of the season into the Tewksbury net cutting the lead in-half and giving her teammates a needed boost.

The girls continued to work as hard as they could but the game would end in a loss. The Wildcat ladies stepped up their game with an impressive 28 shots at the Tewksbury net and with the task of facing an all fourth grade Tewksbury team these energetic third graders were not intimidated, they proved that they have the skills and determination to take on any older team that steps on the field. The ladies made us all proud of their teamwork and don't quit attitude.

Easy ceiling fan replacement

CLAREMORE, Okla. (AP) — Jerry Criner wasn't looking forward to replacing his broken ceiling fan last August. "You've got all those wires hanging from the ceiling that you have to wire up to the fan. I knew I didn't know how to do that," he said. "So I said, 'Maybe they make a ceiling fan you can just plug in to the ceiling.' Of course they didn't. It couldn't be that easy."

But, as Criner would find out, it was that easy.

For the past year, Criner and Jody Young have been working on a design that would allow ceiling fan owners to simply plug the fans into the ceiling without worrying about where the green or red wires connect.

"It has taken several tries over the past year, but I think we've got it where we want it now," Criner said.

Through trial and error, Criner and Young have invented an adapter for ceiling fans to be plugged into the ceiling through a base that will be installed by an electrician. Two manufacturing companies currently have confidentiality agreements with the Claremore couple in an effort to produce and market their product. That is exciting news for the two.

"We're excited and we want our product to be used in homes all over because it makes it so much easier," Young said.

It's a simple idea. The usually exposed wires remain inside the fan and the ceiling while a base plate serves as the receptacle with the plug extended from the fan.

"It takes less than a minute to install the fan with this," Criner said.

Other than making it easier to install the fans, Young and Criner said it would be more sanitary as well.

"No more standing on a ladder or a chair to clean your ceiling fan which then blows dust all over the home," Criner said. "With the plug in you can take the fan down to clean it outside if you want."

According to the couple, Home Depot has also expressed an interest in their product.

Young says she thinks customers will like the idea of a plug in fan because, "with the different seasons when you change your curtains you can also change your ceiling fan to match."

Criner likes the idea of the product being used in new construction because it would save builders money.

"You're looking at approximately $60,000 to put up fans in a 300 unit apartment because you have to have an electrician wire them all in," he said. "With the plug in fans, I'd say it would cost around $6,000. That's a huge savings."

Although Young and Criner have spent about $3,600 for machining costs and more than $15,000 for a patent attorney, the raw cost just to make the plug in adapter includes less than $5 in materials.

The first prototype was made by hand where Criner would cut pieces of pipe or plastic and use rotary tools to finish the samples. Frustration would set in at times when one wouldn't work, but teamwork overcame the obstacles. "When one wouldn't work, Jody would say, 'Well why don't you try this,' or 'Maybe this would work better.' That would always get me going again and we just never gave up," Criner said.

The invention is one that may be seen in home improvement stores sometime in the future. But until then, Criner and Young are using their first working model in their own home where it works nicely.

Mite 3's begin season on the ice

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Association Mite III team continued early season play on Saturday afternoon, facing off against the Waltham Mites at Veteran's Memorial Rink in Waltham. Garrett Alberti played goal, making several sharp saves against the Waltham team. The starting lineup had Matthew Pendenza starting at center between forwards Anthony Bowker and Anthony Cuozzo. Max Churchill and Aidan Elkins started on defense. Rotating throughout the game, the second defensive pairing of Joseph Hartzell and Alex Fitzler held the back end, while Chris Bernazani, Harry Serounian, and brothers Brendan and Matthew Ardito skated at forward positions. Scrambles in front of the net were the order of the day, with the bounces ultimately going in favor of Waltham. Despite falling behind, the Wilmington youngsters played hard throughout the game, with the third period featuring end-to-end action as the teams traded scoring chances. Despite the final score of 6-0, the coaches were proud of the effort and determination of their young developing players. The team is learning the skills and rules of the game, all while having fun playing in front of an enthusiastic crowd of parents, friends, and relatives. For information on upcoming games and more, go to www.wilmingtonyouthhockey.org.

Officials say they will not do it without town's blessing

MWRA considers placing 185 foot water tanks at Reading/Stoneham line

By PAUL FEELY

READING - Officials from the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) stressed recently during a meeting with the Reading Board of Selectmen, where both sides revisited a proposal they first floated back in 2008 to place two giant water storage tanks within the town's boundaries, that they don't want to force the town into anything.

Today, the Middlesex East Supplement looks at the proposal and the discussions that took place at this week's meeting, to update and refresh readers on exactly what is involved regarding the issue, due to the fact that if the structures are put in place they will directly impact the sight lines of residents in three Middlesex East communities (Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield), while such storage tanks would help provide water for communities such as Wilmington and possibly Woburn.

For those who may not remember, back in 2008 the MWRA initially presented a proposal to place two 3.4 million gallon water storage tanks, each 120 feet in diameter and 185 feet high, within a grassy area (owned by MassHighway) inside Reading's border at the Routes 28 and 128 cloverleaf.

MWRA representatives made a presentation in January of 2008 before the Selectmen, detailing plans to deal with redundancy for the town's water supply. Those plans include a major water main installation project in the town of Stoneham, but they also call for the construction of two 3.4 million gallon water storage tanks by 2012, each 120 feet in diameter and 185 feet high, within a grassy area at the Routes 28 and 128 cloverleaf (as a point of reference, the light poles located along Route 128 in that stretch are estimated to be 120 feet tall. The proposed tanks would stand an additional 65 feet taller.)

"Personally, I think the use of cloverleafs is a good thing," said Reading Town Manager Peter Hechenbleikner at that 2008 session. "In this case though, the concern is the height and the size of these tanks. It's something no one wants in their backyard, sideyard, or frontyard, but everyone wants the water."

According to MWRA officials, the tanks need to be that height and width in order for the distribution process from the tanks to the local pipelines to work properly (at that height, the proper mix of pressure combined with gravity can be achieved).

MWRA officials looked at three possible sites in the area for the tanks, all within Reading's boundaries. The other two sites - adjacent to the current Bear Hill tank, or just off Route 93, were deemed less desirable due to their close proximity to residential neighborhoods in Reading.

Sites in other towns or cities, such as Woburn, were also considered, the amount of pipe that would have to be constructed to connect to tanks in such a location would make the project illogical.

In July of this year, Reading Selectmen Ben Tafoya and Steve Goldy, Hechenbleikner, Reading DPW Director Jeffrey Zager and Town Engineer George Zambouras met at the office of State Representative Brad Jones with MWRA officials to clarify a few points of the proposal.

The concerns of the town's residents and officials regarding the height of the tanks was relayed during the session, and talks were held about dropping the number of tanks down from two to one. The height could not be reduced because the structures must be that tall in order for a gravity-feed system to work to distribute the water (the MWRA does not want to rely on electricity at the site to get the water out, in the event of a disaster).

As far as the location goes, that spot, according to MWRA officials, is the best spot in the region, based on height above sea level and lack of personal property such as homes, throughout the local region.

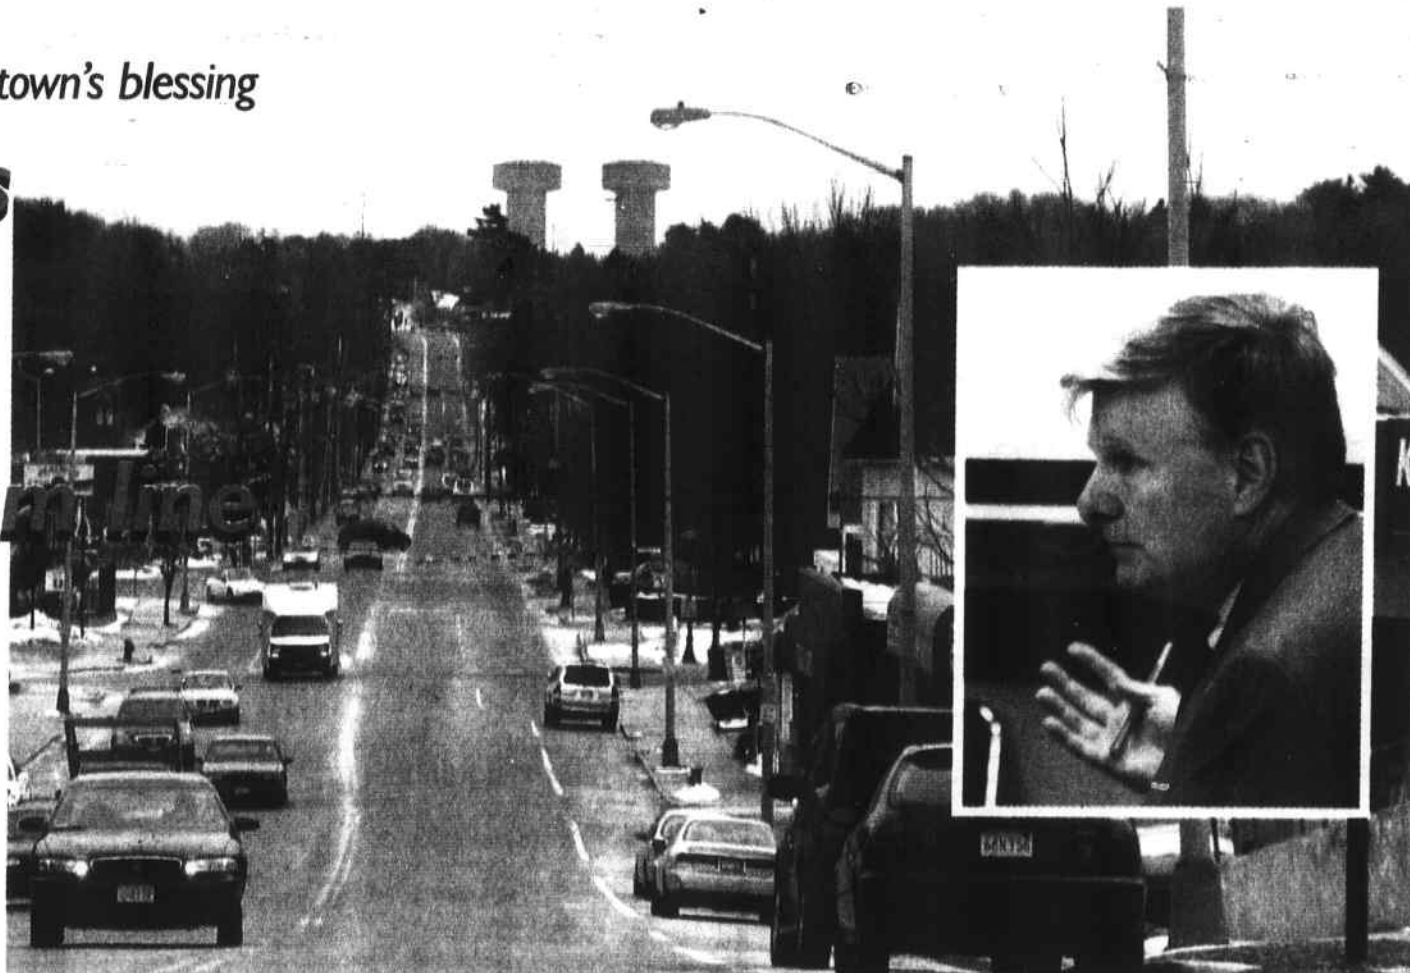

Reports have appeared in the press this summer regarding an MWRA proposal to place water tanks on the former hospital grounds in Stoneham, but these tanks are to provide water storage capacity in the 'Northern High' portions of the MWRA service area (*Medford, Malden, etc.), and are not intended as a substitute for the proposed water tank storage units for the 'Northern Intermediate High' site at the interchange.

At the meeting, the EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE MWRA FRED LASKEY said recently, "We don't have the ability, or the desire, to force something on the town." Laskey was referring to two 185 foot water tanks the MWRA has suggested be placed on the Reading/Stoneham line. The tanks would supply water in the event of a disruption to area water supplies.

Reading delegation asked about the possibility of placing the tanks in Wilmington, a town which is now joining the MWRA service system. MWRA officials answered that they don't feel that locating the tanks in Wilmington would adequately service the area in the event of a disaster, because the Wilmington connection point is at Mishawum Road in Woburn and is just addressed as a distributor line from that point.

Discussion then turned to the current Bear Hill standpipe owned by the town, and whether or not repairs and improvements could be made to that structure to serve the storage needs of the MWRA.

The standpipe is due for replacement in 10 or more years, and recent tests showed Tanks to S-4

"THE INFORMANT" - NOT JUST A COMEDY

by Paul Feely

"THE INFORMANT" stars Matt Damon as Mark Whitacre, an overweight, hairpatch-wearing top-level executive. And what a character he plays! There are also some good cameos in this comedy/character study.

"THE INFORMANT"
GRADE: ***

Matt Damon excels as "The Informant!", the title character in director Steven Soderbergh's newest film. Soderbergh's film may bill itself as a comedy, but it's really a character study, and what a character Damon plays.

Based on a non-fiction book, Damon stars as Mark Whitacre, an overweight, hairpatch-wearing top-level executive for Archer Daniels Midland in the early 1990s, right before the proverbial dung hit the fan blades. He becomes aware of and becomes a key part in international price-fixing for the nutrient lysine, then becomes an informant for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

This is where Damon is at his best. Whitacre is full of himself. (He calls himself Agent 0014, because he fancies himself twice as smart as 007), balancing his dual positions in life, attending meetings and playing the family man, all the while lying to everyone around him.

He is delusional, which becomes apparent to the audience through incessant voice-over narrations where he rambles on and on. It also becomes apparent to the FBI agents he is working with, specifically Scott Bakula, thanks to his ridiculous actions.

Soderbergh gives the film a washed-out look, which helps to give it a 1970s feel, which jives well with the Marvin Hamlisch soundtrack and hairstyles and fashion ensembles that populate the piece - but doesn't jive with the timeline of the story which takes place during the 1990s.

Look for good cameos from comedians such as Patton Oswalt, as well as appearances by Tom and Dick Smothers.

That's right - Matt Damon, in a film with the Smothers Brothers, in 2009. Isn't that worth the price of a ticket right there?

"WHITEOUT"
GRADE: *

Though "Whiteout" is the name of this film, it's also what should have been used on the script - actually, the whole thing probably should have been scrapped from the start.

Kate Beckinsale plays U.S. Marshal Carrie Stetko, a character we are introduced to when, 10 minutes into the film, she strides onscreen, promptly undresses, and takes a shower with strategically-placed clouds of steam on the see-through doors - the kind of thing you see in direct-to-video flicks, or poorly-made Hollywood films that open during the September doldrums.

Director Dominic Sena ("Swordfish," "Gone in 60 Seconds") does nothing with the screenplay, which is based on a good graphic novel.

The movie opens with a fake-looking CGI stunt where a Russian cargo plane crashes on Antarctica in the 1940s.

Naturally there's a mysterious locked box aboard with something inside that must be kept a secret at all costs, even if folks have to die because of it.

Jump ahead to present day, when the US base there is a hive of activity as everyone gets ready to exit for the winter before a "big storm" arrives.

The discovery of a dead body in a remote region threatens to upend Stetko's vacation plans and triggers flashbacks of an assignment gone wrong in Miami.

Beckinsale teams up with a pilot and eventually heads to a Russian base where she finds a geologist dying on a sofa from a slashed throat - and an ice-pick-wielding killer staying just out of sight.

Everything is explained to the audience in such a manner that a five-year-old could follow along, which makes sense considering the paint-by-numbers approach taken to the so-called surprise ending - a twist that most moviegoers will see coming long before it plays out on screen, and the houselights mercifully come up.

"EXTRACT"
GRADE: ***

Mike Judge's latest is a workplace comedy about the owner of a cooking-extract factory and the comedy of errors that his life becomes - but fans of "Office Space" beware: this one is not up to par with that classic.

It's set in a factory instead of a jumble of cubicles, but both "Extract" and "Office Space" are workplace comedies written and directed by Judge, both are populated almost entirely by idiots, and both are amusing diversions from real life, if nothing else.

"Extract" isn't as satirical as "Office Space," but it can boast of having a great cast that manages to rescue the movie from being lumped into the rest of the summer-time clunker comedies.

the minions, the hero this time is a manager (Jason Bateman), and it's the drone-like worker bees who are the target of Judge's humor.

Bateman plays the owner of an extract factory who is on the verge of selling his company for a tidy profit. Mila Kunis (That 70's Show) is there to complicate things, as the pretty factory worker who gets everything she wants.

"Extract" doesn't work from beginning to end - some jokes fall and fall hard - but there is enough there to keep most movie patrons smiling and fans of Judge's past work will be satisfied as well.

YES, NO, AND A SOFT 'CELL

YES IN WOBURN- IS IT PIZZA YET?

"In an effort to get some two dozen people back to work as quickly as possible, the City Council Tuesday night voted to allow a change to the special permit it granted Au Bon Pain in East Woburn to allow it to become a Sal's Pizza," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Deeming" the change minor, as the two establishments have many of the same characteristics, the City Council on a 9-0 vote approved the amended permit as word was received that Au Bon Pain, located on Washington Street, had closed its doors....

"There was much concern over the precedent it might set by allowing the change in use as an amendment to the special permit, instead of requiring a new special permit filing, but the change was deemed minor and several City Council members spoke to the importance of getting some 28 local people back to work as quickly as possible.

"Salvatore Lupoli, President and CEO of Sal's Pizza, based in Lawrence, said the local chain had long been looking for a location in Woburn with this opportunity for the Washington Street location recently presenting itself.

"While Au Bon Pain in general is still doing well, Lupoli explained that the Woburn location was a concept store and the concept just never caught on. As is, the Woburn location is also now too big for Au Bon Pain to convert it back to a regular location, he said.

"The two uses are so similar, Lupoli said, that the only real change will be the addition of a pizza oven and the relocation of a counter....

"Whereas Au Bon Pain offered breakfast, lunch and dinner, Sal's would draw a lunch crowd with a main portion of the business centering on dinners, between 5 and 8 p.m.

"The good news, he said, was the base pay from Sal's was a little higher than the base pay from Au Bon Pain. NO, NO IN READING

"Following nearly two hours of discussion, the Board of Selectmen...voted unanimously, in separate votes, to deny two applications for the All-Alcohol Package Store License that was surrendered by the owner of the Atlantic Food Mart earlier this year," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"...One hearing was held on an application by Wine Nation MA, which wanted to set up shop at the former Linens'N Things site at 40 Walkers Brook Drive.

"This is unlike any liquor store you have ever seen," said Latham, who stated the location would carry between 7,000 and 8,000 different types of wine labels, 800 different types of beer, and over a 1,000 different varieties of spirits, while also creating 40-60 local jobs....

"The second hearing involved an application by Reading Discount Liquors, for a location at One General Way, near the Market Basket supermarket (next to the Creative Playthings store)....

"In the end, the Selectmen unanimously voted to deny granting the license to either applicant, stating they weren't sure that the town needs a fifth package store, and specifically not one the size proposed in either application (which Selectmen Rick Schubert pointed out would exceed the size in square footage of the other four package stores in Reading combined)."

TOWER POWER IN TEWKSBURY?

The Town Manager's Office has conducted crane tests on two municipal sites in the Town of Tewksbury. "At each site the crane was set to the height of a proposed cell tower and photos were taken from surrounding areas to show its visibility for surrounding residents," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"The first crane test took place at Easement Road where more than a dozen residents gathered to determine how visible a potential cell tower would be for abutters. Much to the surprise of Town officials participating in the tests, no one attended the second test of the day held at the his understanding that these potential tower locations will be on the warrant for the upcoming Town Meeting in October. Therefore, there will be further opportunities for discussion when the Board of Selectmen holds a public hearing on the warrant and again on the floor of Town Meeting...."

I joined Get In Shape For Women 6 months ago and I am amazed at my results. I have lost 52 lbs. and 7 pant sizes, which means I am down to a size 6 for the first time in 25 years! The amazing part for me is that not only do I look great, I feel great as well. My confidence has gone up while my stress, blood pressure and cholesterol are at an all time low. My trainers Mike, David and Jess have been great teaching me how important it is to take care of my body and my mind. For the first time ever I'm committed fully to exercise and health.

MIDDLESEX EAST WEEKLY TRIVIA

What team holds the NFL record for consecutive losses?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

JUNIOR MERULLO (WAKEFIELD) scored a pair of goals and set up another as UMass Lowell defeated Saint Anselm, 3-0, Wednesday night in a Northeast-10 Conference women's soccer clash at Cushing Field.

The victory was the third straight for the River Hawks, who improved to 4-2-0 overall and 4-1-0 in the NE-10 entering a key weekend. UMass Lowell visits Assumption Saturday at 4:00 and Bridgeport Sunday at 6:00.

Saint Anselm slipped to 3-2-1 overall and 3-1-0 in the Conference and hosts Le Moyne Saturday at 12:00.

UMass Lowell outshot the Hawks 23-5 overall and 10-1 on target.

The River Hawks opened the scoring in the 16th minute when senior F Kelly Soper (Worcester, MA) did nicely to save a ball from going over the endline off a cross from JUNIOR F BRIANNE BOZZELLA (WILMINGTON). Soper tipped to Merullo, who then crossed to freshman F Taylor Hartmann (Feeding Hills, MA) who tapped home uncontested.

Merullo scored her first in the 36th minute when she slotted a through-ball from freshman M Jenna Costa

She completed the brace in the 50th minute on a header at the far post, compliments of a cross by Bozzella from the right flank.

The Hawks had a golden chance to open the scoring in the seventh minute when junior F Jennifer Pearl (Stoughton, MA) blasted off the crossbar from the top of the box.

The No. 3 UMass Lowell River Hawks (7-1, 1-0 NE-10) shut out St. Michael's College (2-5, 0-0 NE-10), 2-0, in a non-conference game on Wednesday afternoon in Colchester, VT.

SAMMY MACY'S (TEWKSBURY) goal in the eighth minute of play (7:48) proved to be the game-winner, while Lizzy Ales (Arlington, MA) added another goal late in the first half to cushion the River Hawks' lead.

Macy had three shots on goal in the game, but it was her strike off a pass from Katie Enaire (Amesbury, MA) on a penalty corner, that she one-timed for her ninth goal of the season.

Ales tallied her fourth goal of the year, unassisted, to close out the first half, in the 31st minute of play (30:25). The two-goal deficit proved too much for the Purple Knights to overcome, as the River Hawks grabbed their seventh win of the year.

Need some help with this week's question? It's a Southern city team.

Junior Lyra Clark (Nashua, NH) placed second individually and led the UMass Lowell women's cross country team to second place Saturday at the Keene State College Alumni Invitational.

The host Owls won both the men and women's titles while UMass Lowell was the runner-up in both races.

Clark posted a time of 12:10 in the women's two-mile road race, just one second behind Keene State's Paige Mills, who won the individual title in 12:09.

JUNIOR SARAH BONOMO (TEWKSBURY) placed fifth in 12:27 while freshmen NICOLE SKOTZ

(TEWKSBURY), Gina Butler (Dracut, MA) and Kelly Walton (Nahant, MA) placed seventh through ninth.

Skotz ran the course in 12:41 while Butler (12:43) and Walton (12:47) were close behind. Freshman Mary Hazen (Framingham, MA) placed 13th in 13:02.

The No. 3 River Hawks (5-1, 0-0 NE-10) fell to No. 4 Stonehill in their first loss of the season, a 2-1 non-conference battle, in Easton, Mass. on Thursday night.

The Skyhawks struck first, as COURTNEY FOLEY (WAKEFIELD) scored in the 14th minute of play (13:08), but it wasn't long before the River Hawks knotted the game at one apiece.

JUNIOR F STEPHEN POTCNER (WILMINGTON) scored two goals as No. 22 UMass Lowell defeated the University of New Haven, 2-0, Saturday afternoon in a Northeast-10 Conference men's soccer clash at Cushing Field.

With the victory, the River Hawks improved to 2-1 overall and 1-0 in the NE-10 entering Wednesday night's clash at Franklin Pierce. New Haven slipped to 1-3 overall and 0-3 in the Conference and host Saint Rose Wednesday at 4:00.

Potcner broke the drought in the 30th minute when senior M Jhony Valencia (Lowell, MA) steered a free kick from the left side which Potcner tapped inside the far post.

Potcner completed the brace in the 53rd when sophomore M Matheus Candido (Lowell, MA) crossed from the left side which Potcner timed well to bundle home.

UMass Lowell nearly added a third in the 89th minute when sophomore G J.J. Comeau (Wallingford, CT), who replaced sophomore G Jonathan Creem (Naugatuck, CT) in the 81st minute due to an injury, cleared a volley at the top of the 18 yard box.

However, freshman M Ryan McLeod (Haverhill, MA) volleyed straight back on the New Haven goal, but his attempt was just cleared off the line by a Charger defender.

The River Hawks outshot the Chargers 15-6 overall and 6-1 on target. Creem had two saves while senior G Ryan Richards (Holden, MA) was tested once.

Sophomore Catherine Dowling (Somerville, Mass.) scored the game-winning goal in overtime to lift the Salem State College Lady Vikings to a 2-1 win over Salve Regina Seahawks in non-conference field hockey action.

Dowling scored 6:58 into the overtime period on an assist from Katie LaPrad (Spencer, Mass.) to give Salem State (1-0) the opening day win. Junior goalkeeper Jessica McKenna (Rowley, Mass.) made nine saves for the Vikings, who led for the first 59:01 of the contest before Seahawk freshman and Kelly Burke (Georgetown, Mass.) potted her fourth goal of the season to tie the game at one. The loss evens the Seahawks record at 2-2 on the season.

Junior April Rossetti (Saugus, Mass.) opened the scoring at 8:08 when she collected a pass from classmate KAREN ATKINSON (READING, MASS.) and beat Salve Regina senior goalkeeper Devin Eppley (Darien, Conn.). The Seahawks closed the period outshooting the Vikings (1-0) 6-5 and held a 4-2 edge in penalty corners.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: Tampa Bay holds the record with 26 straight losses from 1976 to 1977.

Tanks From S-1

it is structurally sound.

The schematic work done so far on this option by the MWRA would be to replace the 56-foot in diameter, 70-foot high standpipe with a 90-foot in diameter, 120 foot tall bowl (on top of the standpipe), with an overall height of 125-130 feet. That work would provide for approximately 3 million gallons of storage.

The town must now decide what avenue it wishes to take regarding the storage tanks - say no to the plan altogether, and risk the loss of water pressure (or water altogether in a worst-case scenario) in the event of a disaster, or effectively 'take one for the team' of area towns, and allow the tanks (or one tank) to be constructed on Reading land.

"When Reading voted to join the MWRA, one of the issues that was raised was that it wanted redundancy for the water supply, and we committed at that time to expedite a project to provide redundancy for the system," said MWRA Executive Director Fred Laskey. "We don't have the ability, or the desire, to force something on the town. We like the site, and would love to continue to talk to you about it, but we can't force the town to do anything. But I would be remiss if I didn't mention the obvious importance of storage."

"I really have to echo what Laskey said, that storage is an important part of your water supply," said Zambouras. "All it takes is one major fire, or everyone running their sprinkler systems, and then you realize how important those tanks that you see in other places are."

Regardless of what Reading decides to do, the MWRA is proposing to replace about 220-0 feet of existing pipe on Route 28 in Reading and Stoneham with a 36-inch pipe. This will provide an interconnection between Reading and Stoneham and will provide for some redundancy in Reading. Eventually, the oversized pipe will be extended into Reading up Man Street to Hopkins Street, over Walnut Street and South Street to West Street, while in Stoneham it would run southward towards Spot Pond.

The Selectmen are expected to discuss the issue further at a future date, then give the MWRA an answer sometime this fall.

Reading Co-operative Bank donates bicycles to Boys & Girls of Woburn

Reading Co-operative Bank recently donated bicycles to 16 excited boys and girls at the Boys & Girls Club of Woburn.

For its 3rd annual Employee Appreciation Outing, Reading Co-operative Bank employees spent the afternoon building children's bicycles. This was a team event where 8 groups lightly competed in a Bike Build. Each team assembled, tested, raced and decorated one boys and one girls bicycle. Upon completion, the Boys & Girls Club of Woburn invited 16 children to come and choose a bike to ride home.

As one staff member put it, "Just a note to tell you why I enjoyed this year's event more than ever -It was not only building and giving away bikes to cute kids. (That was cool!) I particularly appreciated the focus on team building with less focus of competition among groups. We were encouraged to share among groups and groups could divide up the tasks in such a way as to use the strengths of each member no matter what age or position they had at the bank. Thank you for creating a day which reinforced your pledge that we are all one institution working together for our customers."

"We were very happy to be able to work with the Boys & Girls Club of Woburn. They were generous in allowing us to use their space, and helped make the event a success. It was a thrill to see the kids running down the hill and all their excitement -It brought tears to more than one eye. One mother told a bank employee that her girls had been excited for the entire week before, while another young boy had been dying for a bike since before Christmas," states Julieann Thurlow, Bank President & CEO.

Austin Prep hosts 32nd annual Craft & Gift Festival on Saturday

READING - The Austin Craft & Gift Festival returns on Saturday, September 26th as 70 crafters and vendors set up shop at Austin Preparatory School.

The 32nd annual event, which draws 1,000 eager customers every year, will be held from 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM in the school's Multi-Purpose Facility at 101 Willow Street in Reading. The event is held inside, so stop by rain or shine!

Featured products include exquisite jewelry, handbags, beautiful handpainted glassware and crystal, unique stained glass items, gourmet foods, woodcrafts, handsewn items, Christmas and fall décor, and much more. Many new and veteran vendors will be on hand selling their wares.

A day of shopping would not be complete without food and fun for the family. Refreshments and a bake table with many delicious treats will be available. An extensive raffle features restaurant and theater gift certificates, themed gift baskets, and more. A lovely fall flower stand rounds out the day's festivities. Bring the entire family to the Austin Craft & Gift Festival for an enjoyable fall day!

Admission is $3 per person and free to children 12 years of age and younger. The festival is sponsored by the Friends of Austin, a parent organization that promotes the general betterment of the students. All proceeds will support Austin's ongoing landscaping project.

Plan the perfect halloween party

Though trick-or-treating was once the standard when it came to Halloween, more and more parents are forgoing that trend and instead choosing to host Halloween parties for kids and their friends. In part because of households where both parents work, and neither parent can make it home to take their kids out trick-or-treating, and partially due to safety concerns, the Halloween party has become a popular alternative to the standard Halloween.

Parents looking to host a Halloween party this fall should consider the following tips.

* Enlist the help of fellow parents. Because so many households are two income households, chances are strong many parents throughout your neighborhood cannot make it home to take the kids out on Halloween. Discuss a party with fellow parents and enlist their help. The idea will probably be warmly received and you'll have a lot less work as a result.

* Get RSVPs as early as possible. Ask parents to RSVP as soon as possible. This gives you a heads-up as to how much food and beverages you need to buy, but it also gives you ample time to tailor the menu to a variety of children, many of whom might be allergic to specific dishes.

* Plan the menu. Though it's common to hear "Halloween" and instantly think of candy, you'll need more than candy bars and lollipops if you're hosting a Halloween party. Since the party will likely be on a weekend afternoon, plan to order a few pizzas for lunch or something else that's universally appealing and won't upset anyone's stomach.

* Stock up on candy. Kids might not be too excited about forgoing their beloved tradition of trick-or-treating, but that can quickly be offset if you simply give kids candy when they arrive and place a handful of candy dishes around the house. While this might seem like a sugary nightmare, it is Halloween, and kids deserve their candy.

* Make it a costume party. The tendency to forgo a Halloween costume when attending a Halloween party is common. But be sure to include on the invitations that costumes are required. This will make it feel more like Halloween for the kids.

Rotary Park
Estate
CondominiumsNow accepting reservations for second phase

Rotary Park Estates, a luxury condominium community in the center of Wilmington, is now taking reservations for its second phase. (First-time homebuyers should act now and secure their $8,000 tax credit).

Designed for the commuting professional searching for a contemporary lifestyle in a suburban location, these architecturally charming townhouses are spacious, equipped with gracious interiors, selectable features, luxury bedrooms and state-of-the-art kitchens and baths.

Interiors have been thoughtfully planned and designed to balance luxury and functionality in today's "green" world with features like high efficiency heat and air conditioning systems, high efficiency Rinnai hot water heaters, high performance insulation and Energy Star label windows.

An abundance of natural light combined with tasteful and quality fixtures gives these homes a warm and inviting atmosphere. The floor plan connects large open rooms for uncongested and relaxing living.

An at-home oasis and an in-town niche, Rotary Parks exterior is handsomely plotted and designed. Nestled inside Main Street, amidst a natural reservation with jogging trails and a recreation area, residences are a perfect blend of modern luxury and natural scenery. Owners will be proud to invite friends and family over to the majestic and meticulously maintained landscape.

Northeastern Development, known for 30 years of building and management integrity, has condominium fees priced reasonably low at $223. Owners will never worry about getting out of their homes in the snow (or scraping their car off because each unit has a garage).

Everything needed is within walking distance: a brand new retail plaza with pharmacies, clothing apparel, home goods, office supplies, a Market Basket and more. Dunkin' Donuts, Starbucks and several take-out and dine-in restaurants offering a menu from subs to Italian cuisine are so close that delivery isn't necessary. Not only in proximity to retail hubs, institutional and personal transacting is literally steps away (these townhouses abut Bank of American and the Wilmington Post Office).

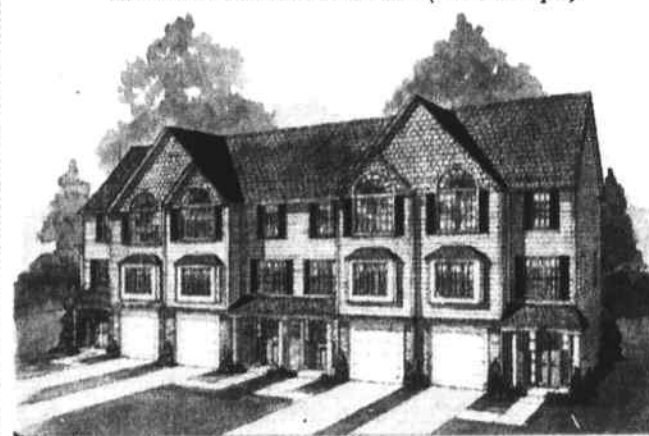

Commuting to work has never been easier. A dedicated path to the MBTA Commuter Station across the street is another amenity that makes Rotary Park a personal and private dwelling.

For drivers, it's only a 20-minute trip into the heart of Boston. Every highway is minutes away: Route 93 and Route 95, north or south, are approx-
